5-Year School Aid Bill

Washington (AP)—The Kennedy administration's new education-aid proposal will be a 5-year program proposing expenditures of more than $6 billion, informed sources said Friday.

President Kennedy's budget sent to Congress Thursday gave some broad outlines of what the program will contain but put an expenditure price tag of only $144 million on it for the year beginning July 1.

It was learned, however, that a budget request for authorization to enter into spending commitments during the next fiscal year up to $1,215,000,000 was made so as to provide the basis for expenditure of 5 times that much, or more, under the proposed program.

Mounting It was explained the programs involving construction do not require large actual expenditures while they are getting under way, with the expenditures mounting as planning is completed and actual construction begins.

The White House has been recommending federal aid to education for 15 years or more, but Congress never has enacted any general aid program. Prospects this year are not regarded as bright, in part because of differences over whether any aid should go to church or private schools.

A Welfare Department spokesman in explaining the budget request said the proposed $144-million expenditure on the new program next fiscal year was part of a "process leading into two, 3, 4 or 5 years of substantial expenditures."

Classes, Salaries The spokesman declined to go beyond the outline of the budget documents other than to say that it would contain provisions for aid to public schools for both classroom construction and teachers' salaries.

The new program is to be spelled out in a special message to Congress late this month or early in February. Informed sources said there has been general agreement on the content of the program and that it is now undergoing a final polishing.

Kennedy said in his budget message he would recommend "a program carefully designed to provide a major impetus to the solution of a selected number of critical education problems."

New Activities He said the program "proposes significant new activities" and added:

"It is designed first, to obtain improved quality in all levels and types of education; second, to help break crucial bottlenecks in the capacity of our educational system by providing funds for building expansion; and third, to increase opportunities for individuals to obtain education and training by broadening and facilitating access to colleges and universities."

Runaway Truck Kills Man

A tractor-trailer truck dangles over the edge of a bridge near Downingtown, Pa., Friday after it struck G. T. Seibert, 23, of Lancaster, Pa., who had been standing near his truck as a result of an earlier crash. The huge tractor-trailer rig, driven by L. J. Crimilis, Philadelphia, skidded on the icy roadbed and Crimilis jumped. Seibert saw the driverless truck bearing down on him and he began running, but the truck overtook him, pitched him 65 feet to the creek below, killing him.

Snow To Diminish But Cold To Stay

Blowing snow teamed with sharp drops in temperatures Friday to fashion another weekend bout with Arctic weather in Nebraska.

And, the Weather Bureau indicated, polar air is expected to remain, perhaps duplicating the cold snap of last weekend.

Forecasters said snows are likely to diminish by Saturday, giving way to a high pressure system which will be instrumental in keeping the cold air around.

5 Below High Highs are predicted about 5 below for Lincoln Saturday, and from zero to 10 below for east and central portions of the state. It will be warmer in the Panhandle with temperatures centering near zero.

Vic Anderson Estate Valued At $866,486

The estate of the late Gov. Victor E. Anderson has been valued at $866,486.40 in Lancaster County Court.

An inventory, on file Friday with the court, listed personal property totaling $579,147.65 and real estate valued at $58,000.

Personal property listed as jointly held with wife, Betty Anderson, totaled $18,225; with Anderson Hardware and Plumbing, $136,888.75, and with son, Roger, $150.

Real estate jointly held with Anderson Hardware and Plumbing totaled $47,000, and with Havelock Realty, $14,000.

Personal property held in custody for son, Roger, was listed as $13,075.

Gov. Anderson, who died Aug. 15, left his estate in trust for his wife and son.

U.S. Ship In Cuba With More Ransom; 90 Are Flown Back

Havana (AP)—The American freighter Shirley Lykes docked in Havana Friday with another major installment of the ransom pledged to the Fidel Castro regime for the freedom of 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners.

Twenty minutes before the freighter sailed into the harbor, a Pan American airliner that also had brought ransom supplies left for Florida with 90 U.S. citizens who had been living in Cuba.

Their departure brought to about 2,200 the number of persons the Castro regime has permitted to leave Cuba for the United States since the three American freighter African Pilot brought the first shipment of ransom drugs and foodstuffs Dec. 23.

The prisoners were flown out Dec. 23-24. The African Pilot carried more than 900 prisoners' relatives to Florida on its return trip.

However, officials of the Swiss Embassy, which handles U.S. affairs in Cuba, said that at present there are no plans for the Shirley Lykes to carry prisoners' relatives on its return trip.

RED SPLIT WIDENS

—MYSTERY VIRUS FATAL—

Gaitskell Dies, Labor Leader

London (AP)—Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the Labor Party and potentially the next prime minister, died Friday after two weeks' illness with a mystery virus. He was 56.

His death threw the leadership of the principal opposition party into confusion at a time it appeared to be making gains against Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservatives. The net effect may be to help the Macmillan party in the next national election, to be held this year or next.

Gaitskell's wife Anna was beside his hospital bed when death came at 9:12 p.m.

Influenza Early last month, he was filling a round of engagements apparently in full health and vigor. He spent a few days in a hospital before Christmas suffering from influenza.

He came out and went home. Then on medical advice he canceled a new year visit to Moscow for talks with Premier Khrushchev. A few days later, he was back in Middlesex Hospital. He had developed a virus infection of the membranes surrounding his heart and lungs. He had pleurisy and pericarditis. There were later complications. The infection spread to his kidneys.

He was treated with a wide range of antibiotics and an artificial kidney but everything known to British medical science failed.

Strong Fight Party aides said Gaitskell put up a tremendous fight for life. "The doctors said they had rarely seen such courage," said one spokesman.

Gaitskell's two daughters—Cressida, 20, and Julia, 23—were both at the hospital.

Gaitskell was perhaps the most brilliant man developed by the Labor Party since World War II. He entered parliament for the first time in 1945 and was made chancellor of the exchequer before Clement Attlee's government was ejected from power by the Conservatives in 1951.

He more than any other single figure brought a semblance of unity to the party in the last decade's bitter divisions over how Britain should prepare its military defenses.

3 Candidates Three candidates are in view as Gaitskell's likely successor.

They are George Brown, 48, the party's deputy leader and defense spokesman; Harold Wilson, 46, the party's expert on foreign affairs, and James Callaghan, 50, expert on fiscal policies.

Wilson has the support of the party's left wing. Brown is supported by the trades union membership of the Parliamentary Labor Party. Callaghan's best chances may come as a compromise candidate between the other two.

Solons To Study Tax Exemption

Government Committee Sets Probe

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Government and Military Affairs Committee Friday agreed to pursue a special study of proposed legislation affecting the state's tax exemption procedures.

A decision to launch a probe into the field was made at an executive session following public hearing on two bills, Chairman Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud told newsmen.

The committee will meet with State Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson and Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer to discuss "clarification and need" of proposed changes in tax exemption policies, Bowen said.

In the meantime, the legislative unit will hold related bills for study, he noted.

The committee Friday heard and held LB14, a measure which would tax any exempt property which is made available (normally by lease) to a business conducted for profit.

The lessee would pay the tax.

Concessions related to airports, parks, markets, fairgrounds, hospitals or other property used for the general public would be excepted.

The bill—introduced by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff—thus joined another Carpenter proposal, LB11, which was held earlier this week for study.

That measure calls for an examination of all exempt property by the state tax commissioner.

4-Year Term Advanced

In other action, the committee advanced to the floor by a 7-0 vote LB1, which implements the constitutional amendment providing a 4-year term for governor and lieutenant governor beginning in 1966.

LB14 received supporting testimony from Carpenter and two fellow lawmakers, Sens. Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont and Elvin Adamson of Nelzen.

The bill, similar to a Michigan statute which was subsequently upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, would tax "those who own and operate leases on tax-exempt property for the purpose of business competition with those who pay taxes," Carpenter said.

Rasmussen was particularly critical of leasing practices of the State Aeronautics Department. With 3 former airbases and the Hastings Naval Ammunition Depot, Rasmussen's proposed new reapportionment district would contain 53,000 acres of tax-exempt property, he noted.

Adamson asked that the bill also except school lands from its provisions.

Opposition was voiced by the Lincoln Airport Authority, the Omaha Airport Authority, Creighton University, the Omaha Masonic Temple Craft Assn. and Sen. F. O. Gottschalk of Columbus.

Bill Increasing Institution Building Levy Being Drawn For McGinley

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Don McGinley of Ogallala said Friday he is having a bill drafted for introduction which would increase the state's institutional building fund levy from its present 1.1 mills to 1.6 mills and also proposes changes in the fund's distribution.

McGinley said the bill, which he expects to introduce early next week, is "nothing more than a vehicle" to get a study of the institutional building levy and the needs of the agencies which use it.

"As an individual, I can't know what these people need," the Ogallala senator continued, "but I know their demands exceed the present levy."

Logical Group McGinley said he believes the "Budget Committee is the logical group to make a thorough study and insist that each department come in and justify its demands, then to determine what the overall levy should be for the years ahead, and to determine the percentage breakdown between the University of Nebraska, Department of Institutions and other interested agencies."

He noted that a "pattern" has already begun for individual agencies to have separate bills introduced for increases for many agencies such as the School for the Deaf, and for the Beatrice State Home, which he said he knew "is in need."

These measures, he said, "very likely" would be channeled to the Revenue Committee "which is not as well equipped as the Budget Committee to give this a thorough study."

"Weighted" Bill The bill he is having drafted, McGinley said, is "weighted" toward the Department of Institutions "because it is my primary concern and interest, although I know there are other demands and needs that will be forthcoming that need to be studied."

The percentage figures in his proposed bill "are not to be taken seriously," McGinley said, emphasizing again that the measure is to serve as the means for the study he believes should be made.

The current levy of 1.1 mills produces $3,703,940 annually. The proposed increase to 1.6 mills would bring a total of $5,387,550 each year—a hike of $1,683,610.

Under the formula contained in the bill, the Department of Institutions' share of the levy would increase from its present 11% to 36.5%, bringing an increase in funds of some $1.5 million annually for the institutions.

The University of Nebraska, which now receives a total of 51% for 3 categories (not including the Medical College), would get 35.5%.

The normal schools now receive 25%, and the figure in the bill proposes 17.5%.

The following table shows the distribution formula which will be contained in the bill, the present method of disbursing the fund, and the amount of increase for each agency.

China Scorns Soviet Advice

DELEGATE FROM PEKING RAPS KHRUSHCHEV AMID JEERING

Berlin (AP)—Two world communist camps tore into each other Friday in a knock-down word battle bound to widen the gaping hole in the international movement's ranks.

Red China's delegate scorned Premier Khrushchev's advice to soft-pedal the Moscow-Peking dispute, assailed him anew and ran into a noisy storm of abuse and jeering at a meeting of communist leaders in East Berlin.

Khrushchev himself traded snubs with the Red Chinese. While Chinese delegate Wu Hsui-chuan was speaking Khrushchev was ostentatiously absent on a visit to an East Berlin television factory.

Chinese Gone When Khrushchev returned for the afternoon meeting, at which Red China was assailed for the first time in the East German Party Congress by name, the Red Chinese chief delegate was absent.

Whistles, catcalls, foot-stamping and derisive howls of "pui" drowned out part of the Chinese delegate's report to Khrushchev's Wednesday address.

Khrushchev's speech and East German party chief Walter Ulbricht's the day before were televised live. But there were no television cameras on Wu and only one Western correspondent was allowed in the hall. Wu's associates finally handed his full text to Western newsmen.

Ulbricht Strikes

In the late afternoon session, Ulbricht struck out at the Chinese.

"The entire world communist movement has learned from comrade Khrushchev's speech the road we must take to spread communism throughout the world," said Ulbricht.

The bald and bearded East German party leader mentioned "differences of opinion with the Chinese comrades," and then implored them to "align themselves with comrade Khrushchev's suggestions, stop these public disagreements, so that coordinated discussions can lead to positive results."

Declined The Chinese delegate had declined to buy that. Wu blamed Khrushchev for starting the public name-calling in the first place. He said the Chinese wanted to stop the name calling, but the Soviet leaders would not listen to reason.

The outbursts against Wu provided strong evidence that the conference actually deepened the Moscow-Peking ideological split.

The Chinese say Khrushchev backed down in the Cuban crisis last October before a U.S. "paper tiger" and is throwing away Red opportunities because he fears American might. Khrushchev says the paper tiger has nuclear teeth, and communism should advance without risking cataclysmic war.

Plodded On Wu plodded through his speech with oriental imperturbability, expressionless at the repeated storms of shouting, whistling and foot-stamping.

He brought one of the loudest outbursts when he lashed out at "modern revisionists represented by the renegades to the working class, the Tito group of Yugoslavia." That is one of Peking's ways of lashing Khrushchev.

"The Tito clique is acting as a special detachment of U.S. imperialism for carrying out its counterrevolutionary global strategy," Wu said.

Bel Rung The Yugoslav Communist are full participants in the East German congress for the first time since Stalin in 1948 declared them outcasts. Paul Verner, chief of the East Berlin party, was in the chair. He rang his bell and interrupted Wu. He warned the Chinese the Yugoslavs were guests and he must stop attacking them.

There was another angry uproar when Wu in effect accused the Russians and others in the Eastern Bloc of siding with Prime Minister Nehru of India in the India-Chinese border conflict.

"The Nehru government," said Wu, "is supported and encouraged by the imperialists, especially the United States. It is regrettable that it is also supported by some self-styled Marxist-Leninists who have disregarded the facts and reversed every right and wrong throughout the Chinese-Indian border dispute... such a shocking stand has nothing in common with Marxist-Leninism and proletarian internationalism."

18-Year-Old Confesses To Hit, Run

Lincoln Star Special

Pawnee City — An 18-year-old Pawnee City High School student Friday confessed to the hit-and-run accident that killed 5-year-old Susan Carol Gottula near Steinauer Tuesday night.

County Sheriff Charles Hall told The Star that he arrested Fred Ajlik, son of Mrs. Doris Ajlik, at his home in Pawnee City early Friday when "all the leads narrowed down to him."

Hall said that the youth, who confessed soon after his arrest, was bound over to District Court on the charge of failing to stop and render aid to an injured person.

While Sledding He struck the Steinauer tot while she was sledding with 8 other children on a hill near her home.

According to the sheriff, the boy said he hit the girl, got out and saw what happened, and then became frightened.

He admitted dragging the sled some 2½ miles past the point of impact before stopping again to kick it into a ditch, said the sheriff.

He drove a 1952, light green Buick, said Hall. The girl's playmates were the only ones who witnessed the tragedy and were unable to give any description of the car earlier.

Held For Hearing

The sheriff said the boy had failed to post bond and would be held for preliminary hearing Monday.

He had had no previous traffic violations, said Sheriff Hall, and had apparently just panicked.

"He said he was having a hard time living with himself, but I guess he didn't have enough nerve to turn himself in," Hall said.

Ferry Explodes; 105 Said Dead

Jakarta, Indonesia (AP)—A tourist ferry burst into flames and sank in North Sumatra's Toba Lake, killing at least 105 persons, Antara news agency reported Saturday.

The agency said a delayed report reaching here said 250 persons were aboard the Djandji Radja (King's Promise) when fire broke out in the engine room Monday and touched off a fuel tank.

The agency said panic broke out on board as flames swept through the boat. It said many passengers leaped into the water in an attempt to reach shore but many stayed aboard and burned to death.

De Gaulle Checked, Not Defeated

MAY STILL CLOSE DOOR ON BRITISH

Brussels, Belgium (AP)—President De Gaulle's attempt to slam the Common Market's door against Britain was checked but not definitely defeated Friday night by the United opposition of his 5 trading partners.

They insisted, and the French agreed after two days of heated behind-door talks, upon a further meeting Jan. 28, the date originally set for the next round of negotiations with Britain.

But in Britain, Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative government was reported facing up to the possibility of final collapse of its efforts to gain entry into the European economic club and its 170 million potential customers.

It has spent 15 months in the effort.

Rumors

The United States was drawn into the controversy by rumors sweeping the corridors as the Common Market ministers debated.

One rumor suggested some kind of secret deal to balance French dominance in the Common Market had been made between President Kennedy and Macmillan at their December meeting in the Bahamas.

George Hellyer, spokesman for the U.S. mission accredited to the Common Market, issued a memorandum denying the rumor and saying "no greater distortion is possible." It reiterated American support for European unity and British Common Market membership. In London, the British government also denied there had been any secret Kennedy-Macmillan deal.

Later Entry

President De Gaulle, who told a news conference last Monday he was opposed to an Atlantic community dominated by the United States, was quoted as predicting Britain's eventual entry into the Common Market, but perhaps after he leaves office.

Other Paris reports hinted De Gaulle's strong stand may have been taken to smoke the British out of their demands for numerous concessions.

Thursday French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville asked that further negotiations with the British be dropped.

Backed Down

But a member of one delegation said "the French backed down before the pressure from the 5 (West Germany, Italy, Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg), who told them: Either we meet again on Jan. 28 or we leave entire responsibility for the break-off to you."

Hendrik F. A. T. chairman of the talks, said that on that date the 6 Common Market members would meet among themselves first and then with Britain. The French, however, made clear that they are coming back only to continue negotiations on an adjournment.

Britain's friends pinned some hope on West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer changing De Gaulle's mind.

In the midst of the Brussels controversy, Fritz Erler, deputy chairman of West German Socialists, the chief opposition party—urged Adenauer to postpone his trip to Paris next week. Adenauer refused, but his government reiterated through a spokesman that it favors Britain's full membership in the Common Market.

Kennedy Will Visit Germany

... NOT FRANCE

Washington (AP)—President Kennedy extended his European travel plans Friday to include West Germany, by-passing France's Charles de Gaulle.

The White House announced that Kennedy has accepted an invitation from Chancellor Konrad Adenauer for "an informal working visit" to Bonn. Kennedy is expected to stop at the West German capital after going to Rome in late May or early June.

"It is not contemplated that the President will make any other stop in Europe during this trip," the White House announcement added.

Rules Out

This appeared to rule out a Kennedy meeting this spring with De Gaulle, the French president whose unbending figure stands athwart major Western unity undertakings rated of great importance by Kennedy.

De Gaulle has rejected Kennedy's Nassau proposal for a multilateral NATO atomic force. And France has posed the outstanding obstacles to British entry into the European Common Market—thus opposing another Kennedy aim.

With the other Atlantic allies in virtually solid array against France on these matters, Kennedy's omission of Paris on his forthcoming trip underscored the isolation of De Gaulle's position.

Expectations

There has been some expectation that De Gaulle would visit the United States sometime this year. U.S. authorities said nothing has been worked out on this, so far.

Suit Seeks Integration In Federal Impacted Areas

Washington (UPI)—The Justice Department Friday formally sued to desegregate public schools near defense installations in 4 deep south areas. It said "voluntary compliance was impossible."

The schools serve large major defense installations in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. In so doing, the counties had received as much as $11.8 million each in federal "impacted area" assistance funds for school construction, maintenance and operation.

The suits claimed violation of the 14th amendment and damage to the morale of servicemen and federal civilian employees whose taxes helped support the schools.

These suits were filed: —In Birmingham, Ala., against the Madison County and Huntsville city boards of education, for children at the Redstone arsenal.

—In Mobile, Ala., the Mobile County Board of School Commissioners, Brookley Air Force Base.

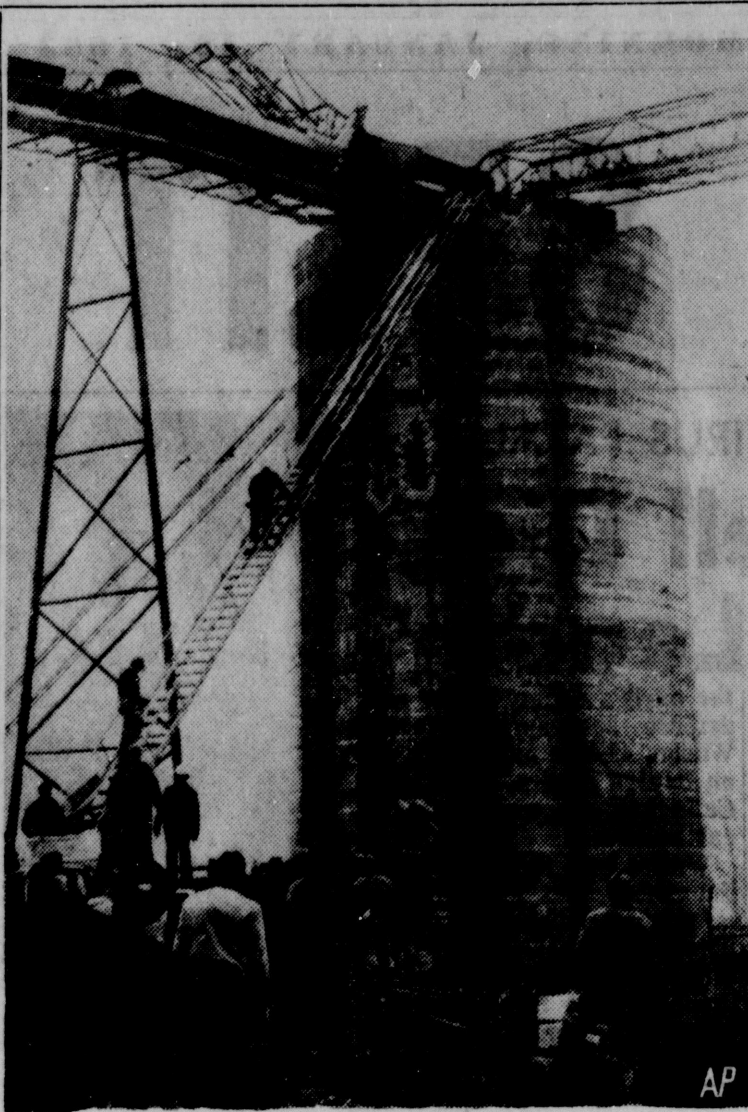

—In Jackson, Miss., the Biloxi-Gulfport city school districts (Harrison County), Keesler Air Force Base.

—In Shreveport, La., the School Board, Barksdale Air Force Base.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the government had a direct interest in ending school segregation in these areas "because government employees and money are involved."

But, he emphasized, "we are not saying to these school districts, 'desegregate or the government will take its money away.'"

A department spokesman said the 4 counties involved in Friday's suits were chosen because "it was found that voluntary compliance was impossible."

Fatal blast ripped holes in coal silo.

Coal Silo Blast Kills 3 Workers

Johnstown, Pa. (AP)—Three construction workers were killed Friday in an explosion in an 80-foot-high coal silo.

Coroner Joseph Govekar identified the men as Joseph J. Skura of Portage R.D. 1, Richwood, W.Va., and Philip Bever, 24, also of Richwood.

He said all 3 men were apparently killed by a blast which ripped two holes into the silo. The men were working on a scaffold, installing a coal chute. The 3 men plunged into the silo, landing amid coal and debris about two-thirds of the way up.

Officials of the Bird Coal Co. in nearby Riverside, where the blast occurred, said it may have been touched off by a spark from an acetylene torch coming into contact with coal dust or coal gas.

Tough Hawaiian Cowboy Is Dead

Honolulu (AP)—Mahea Lono, a former Parker Ranch cowboy who was nearly 103 years old, died Thursday at Kawaihae on the island of Hawaii.

Lono, born Feb. 8, 1860, was tough and wiry until last year, when he began failing. He seldom wore shoes until he was 99. Wearing dungarees and a 10-gallon hat, he liked to tell stories about cattle branding drives in the days of the Hawaiian monarchy.

Fear 80 To 100 Dead In Sea Mishap

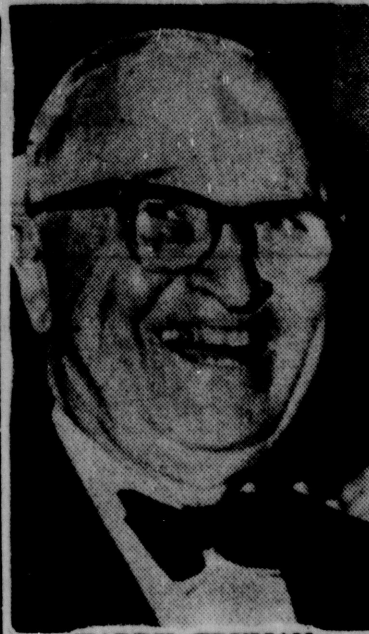

Seoul, Korea (AP)—A survivor told Friday night how a furious storm boiled out of the Yellow Sea and sank a coastal ferry with feared loss of 80 to 100 lives.

Disaster struck about noon and 11 ships searching the stormy waters off Korea's southwest coast have found only 9 bodies. So far as officials know, only Suh Chong-soo survived.

The coastal ferry, the 34-ton Yun-ho, was on a 15-mile run from the port of Hainam to Mokpo.

Only a few minutes out of the port of Yunho, a gale swept in, one of those sudden storms that are the terror of small craft plying the coastal waters of Korea.

The ferry lasted but a few minutes in the storm. She capsized only about 4 miles from Mokpo.

HARRY TRUMAN

Truman OK After Surgery

Kansas City (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman had a hernia repaired Friday in an operation that kept him in surgery for nearly two hours.

The 78-year-old patient was reported in satisfactory condition and resting comfortably after being taken to a recovery room at Research Hospital.

"The operation was routine and was completed without complications," the hospital said in a statement.

The hernia was described as a simple rupture on the right side of the abdomen. Truman was wheeled into the operating room at 8 a.m., CST, and was brought out at 9:00 a.m. General anesthesia was administered.

A hernia is an outpouching under the skin resulting from a weakness in the abdominal wall. Hospital sources said surgical repair of this common ailment is not complicated.

Truman had entered the hospital Monday for his annual physical checkup.

The hospital said the former president's physicians had known of the hernia for some time and "felt that since he was in the hospital for a check-up it would be a good opportunity to perform the surgery."

PERSONAL INCOME WAS HIGHEST EVER

Washington (AP)—Americans received more personal income last year than ever before, a total of $440.5 billion.

After taxes, the Commerce Department reported Friday, they had $383 billion left for spending and saving, a 5% increase over 1961.

The department reported the personal income figure was $24 billion higher than the 1961 total but still was about $7.5 billion short of Kennedy administration forecasts of a year ago.

Wage Hike

A $17-billion increase in wages and salaries to a 1962 total of $295.8 billion was a big factor, the report said. This was an increase of 6% over 1961.

The department said manufacturing payrolls accounted for $6 billion of this increase, rising to a total of $93.6 billion. It attributed this to recovery from the 1960-61 recession.

Nonmanufacturing payrolls increased $6.2 billion to $122.5 billion, with government employees in all categories receiving $56.2 billion, or $4.4 billion more than in 1961.

Unchanged

Farm income at $17.3 billion remained unchanged. The department said that from November to December there was an increase of almost $500 million in farm income, reflecting higher prices and larger marketing of meat animals.

Income from Social Security benefits, unemployment insurance and similar sources rose about $1 billion to $34.6 billion in 1962.

Dividends were up almost $1 billion to $15.9 billion, and personal interest payments increased $2.3 billion to $29.7 billion.

Shirt Tale Pretty Sad

Washington (UPI)—Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, has a sad, sad shirt tale.

Vanik, in remarks inserted into Friday's Congressional Record, said he went to a Washington department store to take advantage of a "famous name" shirt sale.

He said the well-known brand was on sale, all right, but the shirts were "school-bus yellow and un-American pink" as well as with "football referee stripes not likely to be worn by young executives still hoping to succeed in business." The white shirts, he said, were in sizes suitable "for neckless men with flippers instead of arms."

Vanik said he found the sale was held to promote the sale of an unfamiliar brand of foreign-made shirts. He bought one and reported it came back from the laundry "like thin armor plate."

"When I sat down, the shirt remained standing," he said. "If I stood too long, the shirt tugged at me to sit down. The unruly shirt simply refused to obey. Now, which should be the master, the shirt or the man?"

Aeronautics Unit OKs Federal Fund Requests

... Lincoln, North Platte, Omaha List Needs

Applications by North Platte, Lincoln and Omaha for federal matching funds for municipal airport construction were approved Friday by the State Aeronautics Commission.

The commission, however, decided not to appropriate any state funds for these projects until it can determine just how much money the Aeronautics Department will have on hand for municipal airport construction in the next biennium.

State aeronautics Director James Sandstedt said the income of his department would be reduced if several bills the legislature is expected to consider are enacted. It would result in a reduction in funds available for airport construction, he noted.

The North Platte delegation, headed by Mayor A. T. Larsen told the commission it plans a total of $287,000 worth of improvements at the city's Lee Bird Airport.

He said the breakdown in the costs included $80,725 for concrete paving, $79,862 for new lighting, $86,902 to resurface a runway, $32,831 for clearing zone obstructions, $6,082 for clearing rightaway and $595 for administrative costs.

The North Platte delegation included M. L. Sievers, manager of the city water and light department; city engineer Jack Carlson and Joe Chambers, a businessman.

Dick Mooney, manager of Omaha's Eppley Airport, requested $302,000 in state funds, and $798,000 in federal funds toward $2,015,222 worth of construction and improvements at the airfield.

They include a holding area adjacent to a runway, a general aviation area service road, a northwest access road, a general aviation parking apron, an airport maintenance center, lighting of the north apron, standby power facilities, runway lighting, a tower annex and a new taxiway.

The Lincoln group asked for $100,000 in state funds toward additional improvements, including pavement, lighting, standby generator and marking (painting) of a taxiway and runway.

Leo Beck Jr., chairman of the Lincoln Airport Authority, and Rollie Harr, executive director of the airport authority, testified.

Total estimated cost of the improvements is $390,000.

Woman Rescued But Injured; Held As Captive For 5 Days

Omaha (AP) — Police crashed into an Omaha residence behind tear gas grenades Friday to rout a man who had been holding a woman at knifepoint.

In the melee that followed the woman was wounded and suffered the effects of tear gas but was reported in satisfactory condition in a hospital. The bullet struck her rib cage and came out under her arm.

Police were informed that the man, identified by Safety Director Chris Gugas as Virgil Beard, had been holding Marie Avant, 38, captive since Sunday, refusing to listen to pleas to release her.

Police had kept the house surrounded since Thursday but had not moved because Beard was holding the woman at knifepoint.

Lt. Monroe Coleman said Beard had taken Mrs. Avant, a former girl friend, to the home of a friend. Officers received a tip as to their whereabouts, but when they arrived Beard grabbed Mrs. Avant, put a large hunting knife at her back and forced the officers to give passage, under threat he would kill her.

He marched her to a cab and took her to the Charles Street address, police following.

Police kept the house under surveillance and at times entered, but were forced back by Beard's threats to kill Mrs. Avant.

Several times he promised to surrender, setting a time, but the promises were never carried out.

Shortly after noon Friday, police decided to enter the house because they feared Beard would harm the woman.

He was holding her in an upstairs bedroom. The officers fired several tear gas grenades into the house and Lt. Coleman and Sgt. William Coleman went into the house. Both fired several shots at Beard, and Lt. Coleman said the woman either lost her balance or was twisted into the path of one of the bullets. They said Beard attempted to knife her.

Coleman reported that the woman had been threatened a number of times recently by Beard.

Coleman said he climbed to the roof of the building and pulled Beard and the woman through a bedroom window. Beard was taken into custody.

JFK Speaks At Gala After $1,000-A-Plate Demo Dinner

Washington, (AP) — President Kennedy told Democrats who thundered approval Friday night that some day America will reach the top of the hill and "I hope they will say that we have done our part."

This was a solemn note from the chief executive at the end of an evening of festivity. The party loyal, including top-bracket Democrats from all parts of the country, turned out to salute the President and the second anniversary of his inauguration.

First there was a $1,000-a-plate dinner, where the President and Mrs. Kennedy spent an hour. Most of the time the chief executive meandered from table to table with smiles and handclaps and friendly words.

Then there was a gala at the National Guard Armory.

Bradshaw (AP) — Warren Otto of Bradshaw said late Friday he has resigned as vice president of the Nebraska Feed Grain Growers Association.

Otto said he has sent his letter of resignation to Earl Strong of Aurora, president of the association.

In his letter Otto said: "There has been too much dissension among directors and the executive officers of the association which makes my position untenable in connection with legislation being introduced in the current session of the Unicameral."

Second Nasty Winter Storm Hits Midwest

By The Associated Press
A second major winter storm in a week expanded over the Midwest Friday with subzero cold, heavy snows and slashing winds.

Arctic air surged over the border from Canada between the Rocky Mountains and Upper Michigan, pressing the zero line into northern Kansas and over most of the northern Rockies by noon.

Thermometers dropped to 34 below zero at International Falls, Minn. at Warroad, also on Minnesota's international border, a weather observer said the needle of his dial thermometer hit a stopper pin at the -30 mark. He didn't know how cold it was.

Heavy snow fell in the mountains of Montana, Wyoming, and Colorado. A 50-inch accumulation at Bridger Bowl near Bozeman, Mont., forced a rescheduling of all ski meet events at Montana State College, except jumping, to slopes with less cover. Five members of the University of Washington ski team, bound for the event, were hurt when their car skidded into a rock wall on a snow-covered highway.

In Wyoming, gripped by subzero air, drifting snow piled by 15-to 25-mile winds disrupted traffic in the south-east. Sheridan measured 10 inches of new snow, and mountain passes were dangerous because of poor visibility from snow and fog.

Many eastern Colorado communities closed their schools because of zero winds and blinding streaks of blowing snow. Rabbit Ears Pass in western Colorado had 14 inches of snow, and Alamosa a -14 temperature.

Former Governor Cochran Said Still In 'Fair' Condition

Robert L. (Roy) Cochran, 76, former Nebraska governor, is listed in fair condition at Lincoln General Hospital.

He has been there since Dec. 20 with a combination of heart and kidney trouble, according to hospital officials.

Cochran, whose residence is 3128 Cedar, was governor for 3 terms from 1935 to 1941. He served as state engineer from 1923 to 1935.

Cochran also served part of a term as state engineer under the late Gov. Ralph G. Brooks.

Airman Escapes Injury When Car Slides Into Train

A 20-year-old Lincoln Air Force Base man escaped injury when the car he was driving collided with a train on Randolph between Capitol Parkway and 25th, Friday evening.

Officer Hollis Jennings said a car driven by Airman Thomas R. Wilson slid on ice and snow and collided with Rock Island Train No. 82.

Jennings said Wilson told him he thought he hit the second or third car back from the engine.

Wilson told the officer the impact swung the car round and he went on his way.

Jennings said he checked with the railroad company and evidently the engineer knew nothing of the accident and did not stop.

Legislation To Regulate Hard Detergents Likely

By GENE BUDIG

Director of Agriculture Pearle Finigan Friday said he would probably seek legislation to regulate hard detergents.

After meeting with members of the State Department of Agriculture detergent pollution study group, he expressed the belief that such legislation was in order.

Committee members generally agreed.

Already, state Senators Harold Stryker of Rising City and Albert Kjar of Lexington have announced interest in the possibilities of such legislation.

Stryker attended part of the nearly 3-hour meeting at the Statehouse.

Hard detergents could cause the state eventual troubles, according to Finigan, who said his department is conducting tests in the state's industrial-uses research program to develop new, soft detergents from corn starch, tallow and other agricultural products.

Residue Found

The ag director confirmed reports that residue from hard detergents has been found in both underground and surface waters throughout Nebraska.

The department made a series of checks to determine the need for such legislation.

Water samples were collected from 14 locations and were studied at the department's Statehouse laboratory, Finigan noted.

He said, "Every one of the tests showed the presence of some alkyl benzene sulfonate, the principal ingredient of hard detergents."

Underground water was sampled from irrigation wells and surface water from streams including the Blue and Elkhorn Rivers.

City water supplies also were checked.

Finigan said, "You can draw a little detergent out of the tap every time you take a drink of water in Omaha and Lincoln."

The residue never breaks down, he emphasized.

"Even though we are a state with a vast water supply," he said, "we have a detergent pollution problem. The findings prove this."

Urges Leadership
Nebraska, he contends, should exert leadership in this area.

"If soft detergents were used, the state agriculture would benefit, too. This would give us a vast, and potentially great, market for corn," he said.

Heavy opposition from the hard detergent industry is assured if such legislation is introduced.

At the meeting were John C. Vaughn from the office of the Chicago Water and Sewer Commissioner; C. C. Chapelow and Albert E. Herner, both from the chemistry division of Midwest Research Institute, Kansas City, Mo.

The Bulky Federal Budget

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

If first reports are accurate, Congress has taken a pretty dim view of President Kennedy's new budget. In fact, the reaction is reported to be so harsh that one wonders if the President has lost with his budget the political momentum he seemed to have with Congress in its opening days. There isn't much question about what it is that is disturbing the lawmakers.

The senators and representatives are appalled at the thought of a budget that anticipates going nearly $12 billion in the red even when it is submitted. If that were all there were to the situation, the alarm of the congressmen would be understandable. But to judge the budget intelligently, one needs to examine the framework in which it was submitted. Even after doing this, there are some who will believe that the budget is wholly unrealistic but the time should be taken at least to consider the matter in its entirety. What this involves are the President's economic theories and the financial position of the nation over the next few years.

There is no guarantee that the way the President and his advisors see things is the way they will turn out but simply to cut the budget to pieces is not going to solve the ills at which it is partially directed. The budget is not entirely a matter of juicing up the economy but it is predicated on such a hope. What the President has done is use a set of economic theories to meet the pressing demands of government.

In its simplest form, the theory is that with a tax cut and high government spending, the economy will be greatly stimulated. It is believed that this, in turn, will provide a much larger tax base so that even lower tax rates will still produce more money and that a deficit level of spending today will eventually be turned into a debt-retiring level tomorrow.

If the theory works, a number of beneficial things will happen. First of all, the domestic scene would be a lot more tranquil than it is. More people would be holding jobs, more money would be made by everyone and taxes would be lower. Secondly, this would have permitted the nation to forge ahead in matters of space, defense and foreign aid as well as keeping pace with the growing demands within our own nation. Maybe the theory appears to be a little dreamy to some people and, as we said there certainly is no guarantee that it will work. On the other hand, the fundamentals of our economic system are just about as simple.

This isn't meant to imply that economics is simple. It is a real science and no generation has ever reached the point where it has completely mastered the subject during its time here on earth. About the best men are able to do is get a pretty good idea of what has happened in the past, try to make things work in the present and speculate on the future. But it is a science which starts with the fundamental principle of supply and demand. This is relatively easy to understand. It means that what people want, somebody will make in order to arrive at a profit and a great circle of buying and selling is created. Of course, it gets complicated from there on when you get into such matters as trade unions, price fixing, inflation, depression and a host of other complicating factors.

The theory followed by Kennedy in submitting his budget would get mighty complicated, too. It would become so complicated, in fact, that to predict its reliability or workability with certainty is an impossibility. But the President is not expected to write a text book on economics — just outline the form of things as he sees them.

If Congress intelligently looks at his program and his designs for the future and decides there is too much risk involved, then it is its responsibility to act accordingly. By the same token, it must then contemplate what it intends to do about the steady force of unemployed people in this nation, about our role in international affairs, about the space race and about defense.

You think the space race is over or forgotten? Consider for a moment the impact on the world of Russia's landing a man on the moon in the years ahead. If we find it difficult to get excited about it today, it is only because it seems so distant and so impossible. But it could well be very near and most certainly is not impossible. If the Kremlin did it before we did, they would have the greatest victory of the cold war to date. No one is going to look approvingly at a budget which calls for a deficit of nearly $12 billion and which would push the national debt to $315,604,000,000.

But it is hoped that Congress and the people will look at all the facts involved and a few of the alternatives. It isn't enough for a people just to turn their backs on something they don't like. Kennedy's budget is no soft touch for the nation but it is a long way from any mark of irresponsibility or impossibility. He has merely given the Congress some thoughtful and perhaps crucial decisions to make.

Space Rivalry Continues

It Takes Courage

The National Council on Religion and Race, a body containing leaders of both the Jewish and Christian faiths, concluded its four day conference in Chicago declaring unequivocal war on racial discrimination.

It described it as our most serious domestic evil and insisted that "we must eradicate it with all diligence and speed." It further described racism as an "insult to God" who created all colors.

This is a most courageous position. Racism is not a fad but a rather deep seated human practice in evidence in varying degrees wherever one race coexists with another in a majority-minority relationship. It is strong enough to defy law and scoff at reason and will only disappear when human ethics improve sufficiently to reject it.

The churchmen who have vowed their war on racism have asked for a hard battle and will receive a good many wounds. But they are an admirable group. They are willing to stand witness to their faith, whatever the cost, and they realize that if their principles are to be forceful that force must stem from human dedication and action.

It is easy enough to deplore racism and to explain that if it didn't exist our country would be more successful in its international position, or that our economy would be better off if the minorities could participate equally with our majorities. But these are actually begging the question. It is simply one of right or wrong. Reduced to that it becomes one of the most difficult to face and it calls for the sort of courage the National Council says it possesses. God speed its efforts.

Is It Form Or Substance?

Commissioner Wayne Swanson spoke with unusual candor on a legislative bill which would strip the State Railway Commission of its constitutional status — in other words reorganize it.

The problem Swanson asserted is not one of form. It is one of substance. The commission lacks an adequate professional staff to perform its duties. It lacks the staff because the legislature has never seen fit to dig up enough to get the job done.

Said Swanson on the matter of appearing before budget committees, "You either are looking for a bloody nose or knots on the head. It is predetermined how much you will receive and no pleading will change the committee's mind."

It is to be hoped that the legislature does not take offense at Commissioner Swanson's blunt words, but rather gives his side of the story a dispassionate examination.

There are times when reorganization is beneficial. But there are many times when reorganization is simply a maneuver to postpone a reckoning of an impractical legislative attitude. It has a kinship with the device of postponing a hard decision by voting for a special study.

There is one thing certain the railway commission and every other body or commission held responsible for the public interest needs fire power sufficient to meet the fire power of the private interests seeking to sustain their construction of the question.

It is a false economy to place such limitations on an agency that it cannot perform its assigned function adequately. The public loses more that way than adequate financing would cost. A squad sent out to whip a battalion will surely lose no matter how many times it is reorganized.

"This Kind Of Reckless Talk Could Take The World To The Brink Of Peace"

DREW PEARSON

Mother Kennedy's Gracious Gesture

WASHINGTON — On the opening day of Congress, an elegantly dressed lady sat in the Senate diplomatic gallery fingering a beautiful pearl necklace, touching up her lipstick, and adjusting her hat. She looked more nervous than a certain young man on the Senate floor who was being sworn in as senator from Massachusetts.

Just behind her sat three other ladies, in plain house-dresses, also intent on watching the swearing-in ceremony, but obviously more composed. The lady in furs and pearls leaned forward as long, lean Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts conducted a handsome youth down the center aisle where he raised his right hand to become a senator of the United States.

All this, coupled with the fact that Attorney General Kennedy kept secret the identity of the donor, led to understandable Protestant concern that future U.S. policy in Cuba was now bought and paid for, and the fear that the President would proceed with another Bay of Pigs invasion to reinstate the Cuban authority of his church.

A careful scrutiny of church policies in Latin America, however, leads to the conclusion that Kennedy, like Premier Fanfani in Italy, has been opposing, not supporting the rightwing political policies of his church.

DORIS FLESON

Demos Critical Of Mansfield's Position

WASHINGTON — Democratic Senate Leader Mike Mansfield is carrying his co-operation with Republican leader Dirksen and conservative Southerners to the point where it is putting a strain on his relations with influential Democratic colleagues.

Notably, Mansfield has so far rejected the pleas of those who fought the good fight for President Kennedy's foreign policy that he leave the Foreign Relations Committee ratio unchanged at 11 to 6.

Foreign Relations Chairman J. William Fulbright put in writing the many reasons he considered compelling for giving Republicans a substantial voice in the formulation of foreign policy legislation. It has been the classic GOP complaint that it was brought in on the crash landings but never at take-off.

Fulbright's view is that the keystone of true bipartisanship in foreign policy should always be a decent sharing of information and responsibility by majority and minority whatever the current imbalance in party representation. This is right in itself, he argued, as well as a protection to the President.

Whip Hubert H. Humphrey, the puller-out-in-chief of Kennedy chestnuts, shares Fulbright's view and believed it had prevailed. He had to learn from a Republican that Mansfield was maneuvering in a different direction.

Mansfield is trying, it is said, to keep room on the Banking and Currency Committee for Dirksen of Illinois and make room for the Southern conservative, Smathers of Florida, on Foreign Relations. The Illinois Senator refused a Mansfield plea that he fill a Republican Foreign Relations vacancy, explaining privately that he could not take the heat from the nationalist Chicago Tribune from so exposed a position.

Dirksen has, however, obliged Mansfield by announcing that he would try to force a showdown in the Senate debate on changing the filibuster rules. Democratic liberals who feel some rules change is essential to the political survival next year of some 20 of their colleagues interpret this as Mansfield being neutral against them.

This group has long regarded Mansfield, who was brought into the leadership succession by the then majority leader, Vice President Johnson of Texas, as a Northerner with Southern sympathies. They had hoped he would be influenced this time by the necessities of so many Democratic senators from two-party states.

It appears also that Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, a moderate who will be up next year, has been enmeshed out of his chance to fill the chairmanship of the Space Committee left vacant by the late Senator Kerr. Senator Richard B. Russell refused to leave the chair of Armed Services and his ranking spot on Appropriations. Senator Warren G. Magnuson made a similar decision with respect to Commerce and Appropriations.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

Much ado about filing cabinets.

Once in awhile there comes along a story which in itself is of no consequence, yet it may provide a precious insight into the shape of important events yet to come.

This week's legislative filing cabinet debate was not exactly a barnburner as a news story. On the surface, it seemed rather trivial. And certainly it held no lasting importance.

But that little, insignificant story may provide a genuine guide to the future of this 73rd session.

Briefly, here's what happened: Terry Carpenter urged the Legislature to authorize purchase of a steel filing cabinet for each senator. They now work out of rather shabby file drawers stacked along the sides of the chamber. Carpenter's motion carried.

Next day, 3 members of the Budget Committee succeeded in leading a move to wipe out that action, and instead appoint a subcommittee to study possible costs involved. The total bill had already been determined to be something less than $5,000.

As a result of the turn-about, purchase of the cabinets now appears extremely unlikely.

Thus, in its early days, this Legislature has now made it quite clear that the primary—if not chronologically the first—question it is likely to ask about most everything from A to Z filing cabinets is: "How much will it cost?"

Medical care for the aged, new efforts to build a tourist industry, regulation of public power, old age assistance, state support for public schools, an educational television network, etc., etc. Are they all to be judged primarily on that question?

Let there be no argument but that cost absolutely must be considered in each and every one of these matters. But, we would hope that need might be the primary concern.

Monday marks an auspicious day in terms of the governor's future relationship with the 1963 Legislature.

Frank Morrison presents his budget address and his fiscal recommendations to the Unicameral on that morning.

Clearly, there are two paths which he could follow:

(1) Present a budget which calls for the expenditure of few new funds, thus appealing to the fiscally conservative nature of the senators and—apparently—to Nebraska voters, or (2) Recommend appropriation of the additional funds necessary to enact the specific programs which he proposed in his inaugural address.

Make no mistake about it: he will be criticized in any event, either as a spender, or as a governor willing to give only lip service to those programs which he supports.

If he follows the second path, and recommends expenditure of new funds to initiate new programs or broaden those already in existence, he may be chastised—but he will be listened to when he or his representative goes before legislative committees to try to prove the need for each specific item.

If he chooses to take the first route, his influence with the 1963 Legislature will be at an end. For senators are watching to see if the governor is willing to stand for what he believes when the chips are down. If he is not, then they will be tempted to ignore anything further which may follow from his lips.

Monday is opportunity day for Frank Morrison, if he will seize it.

A governor fresh from endorsement after a tough and able opponent at the polls is always in a strong position with a legislature. Morrison could use that influence to further his proposed legislative program.

Of course, he cannot possibly succeed in gaining enactment of the entire package this session. But, he will most certainly enjoy more success by standing firm on Monday than he will if he chooses to back away.

Sun And Wind

Lincoln, Neb.

There must have been many sounds of exasperation when Terry Carpenter returned to the public eye by tossing his hat into the senatorial ring. His blustering filibustering as he proposes reams of ideas, he must have been working on all during the months of retirement. Except for a few daring souls who managed to get a word in sideways, it has been his name that has crowded out everything else in the day's report.

Therefore it must have brought many a chuckle of delight when a soft-spoken man arose to face his opponent. Senator Richard Marvel's quiet exterior belies the explosion of words of wisdom that he has discarded and chosen for such moments as these.

All this proves the story of long ago. The Sun and Wind argued which could get the man walking along the road below them to take off his coat. So the wind began. He roared, puffed, lashed at the hapless one below, who only drew his coat closer about him. Shrugging, the Wind told the Sun to see what he could do. The Sun softly touched him, increasing his warmth about the man, who unbentoned his jacket and was soon carrying it as he mopped his forehead.

So Mr. Carpenter stands defeated by a senator who rants not nor blows meaningless words, but blasts off with choice ammunition, scoring a bull's eye with serious men who strive to give their best to those whom they represent.

Personal Matter?

Lincoln, Neb.

I quote from a Lincoln Star editorial of January 17: "One wonders how often it must be proved to be accepted that moral conduct is a personal matter and if it has to rely on the force of public law, it isn't worth the paper the code is written on."

Let us hope Congress, the Unicameral and City Council don't take this too seriously and repeal all the actionable torts, criminal laws, etc.

If all people were righteous, no law would be broken or even need to exist. Laws are made to govern the lawless by force when they do not obey the proper moral precepts of their own volition.

Who proved that "moral conduct is a personal matter"? What a ball some people have in a "personal matter" way—speeding, running into other cars, trespassing on property, kicking the neighbors' dog and children, and kissing the wife of the defenseless neighbor—without law.

What is morally wrong with giving people one day for religious reverence? It might reduce the cost of keeping people good by force of law.

Complete Report

Lincoln, Neb.

My thanks and appreciation to The Star for the publication of the complete text of the President's State of the Union address.

I feel that it is the duty as well as the privilege of every citizen to read the message in its entirety, whether one is a Republican or a Democrat. Without its publication in our daily paper, this would have been impossible for most of us.

I am much indebted to The Star and I am sure many other readers feel the same way.

Greatest Reward

Ansley, Neb.

I enjoyed very much the La Verna Hassler column, "Patchwork Prairie Country," in Monday's Star. I, too, like to remember looking through slides at the telescopic views and pictures. We children would push the bar on the slide closer or farther away, changing the view.

Other things I like to remember are the little cotton-tail bunnies bounding here and there, the howling blizzards and when the storms were over, the slumbering peacefulness of everything.

In the spring, I remember the meadow larks and robins and bobwhites, the severe rainstorms with flashes of sharp lightning and the loud claps of thunder which were terrible to see and hear.

I also enjoyed the good letter written by Horace Davis, "Mark of the Prairie." The people in those days were very resourceful. They had courage and the determination to build homes and raise their families in the West. They endured hardships, disappointments, losses, but with strong hearts, bodies and souls and with the help of God, they endured. Hard work and good living gave them peace of mind — the biggest reward of all.

Savings Bonds

It has been called to our attention that a syndicated article by Robert Peterson, printed in the January 10 edition of The Star ("Life Begins At Forty") contained some incomplete and inaccurate information about Series E and H Savings Bonds. We have since received the January 15 edition of The Star, in which attention was called to a letter written by R. R. Koudele of the First National Bank and Trust Company, offering supplemental information about the terms of the bonds.

Because of the numerous changes which have been made in the terms and interest rates in both Series E and H Bonds, all for the benefit of the bond holder, it is unfortunate that many people are not aware of these improved terms. We are certain that the publishing of Mr. Koudele's letter and the further calling attention to it will be appreciated by many of the Star readers who hold bonds and who are vitally interested in their current interest rate and the extension privileges offered.

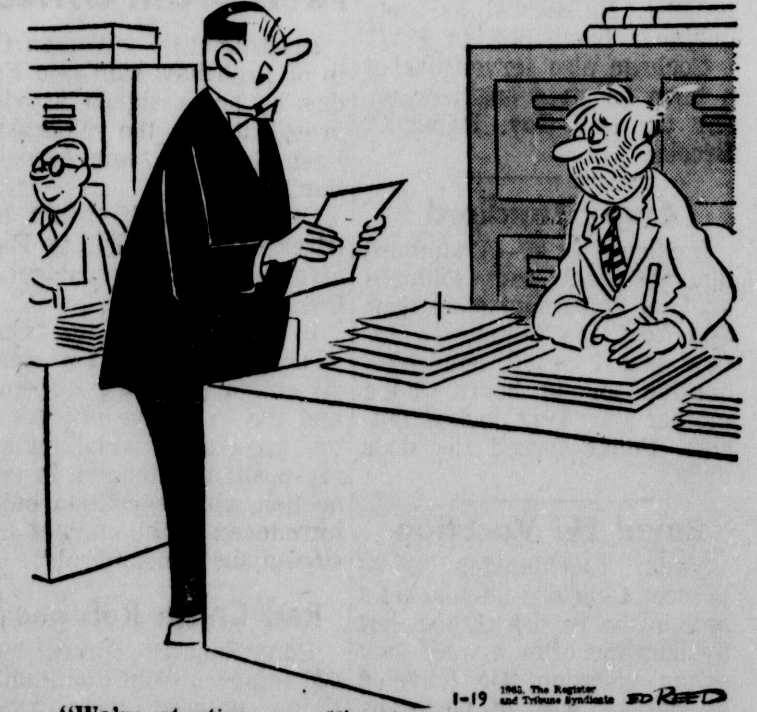

Our thanks to The Star for providing this information to its readers.

Widow Finds New Congenial Life In California

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. "I wrote you last year asking what a widow of 62 could do to get more fun out of life than I was finding in the youthful suburban community where I lived. You suggested I move to a new community. Last summer I was in California and happened to visit the famed "Little House" at Menlo Park. It's the nation's finest day center for older people with things going on daily and plenty of nice, new people to meet. So I rented an apartment nearby and have moved to that community and found a fine new life for myself. Thought you'd like to know."

A. Thanks for writing. Although it's often important for older people to remain in familiar surroundings, it may be even more important that they have satisfying relationships with folks their own age. For that reason many older people who are alone should move to localities which have day centers and facilities providing a place to go and meet new friends.

Q. "You wrote recently about a woman in her 50's who had been an army colonel. She couldn't find an executive job in hotel work so she got a job as a maid in order to learn the business. I was thinking of enrolling at a hotel school but this has made me wonder if I'd be better off starting as a maid and learning the hotel business that way."

A. I'm a great believer in on-the-job training. If a person really has something on the ball he can start in a menial job, master the tasks involved, and rise to better things more quickly than if he has school-book knowledge. This doesn't apply to all professions, but many hotel executives have said they would prefer to choose their executives from among their experienced personnel rather than from those who have merely a textbook knowledge of hotel operations.

Q. "I'm a widower, 58, and hold a responsible job. We lost our only son in the war and I have no immediate family. I'd like to adopt two or three children and can afford a nurse to care for them during the day. Does my age prevent this?"

A. Most age restrictions imposed by adoption agencies relate to the adoption of babies. It is often possible for folks well past 40 to adopt older children who lack parents. As adoption regulations vary in all communities, check with your local adoption agencies. You may also wish to check with international adoption agencies about the possibility of adopting a child from Korea or Hong Kong.

Q. "I'm a hermit and don't mind admitting it. My wife is gone and I've come to the conclusion that life is a pretty stupid experience. Oh, I'm not going to shoot myself or anything like that. But I'd just like you to know that I've organized my thinking to a point where I get all the satisfactions I want from my daily newspaper, my television set, and a German shepherd dog. What's wrong with that?"

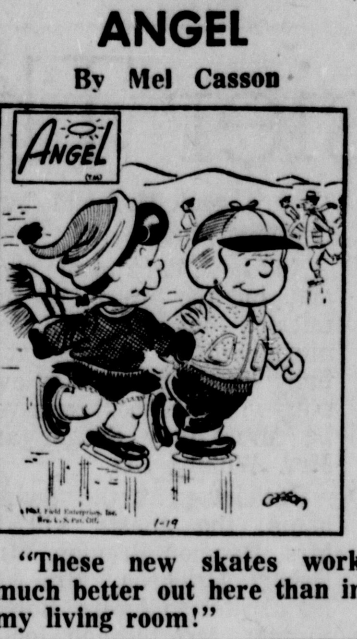

A. Nothing, if you're really satisfied. Contentment is the great human goal, and if you can get it from a video tube, the printed word, and a pooch I say more power to you. I'm sure psychologists would contend that you're withdrawing from the world because of an inability to make satisfactory relationships with human beings. But if you're really contented I'm not going to argue with you.

State Senators Take Step To Correct 1961 Error

The Legislature Friday took the first step in correcting an error made in 1961 in a law aimed not only at controlling advertising on the Interstate but also at getting an additional one-half of one per cent of the cost of building the road.

Under the 1961 law, the Department of Roads acquired advertising rights along the super-highway and in so doing became eligible for another one-half of one per cent of the construction cost from the federal government.

The Federal Bureau of Roads, after discovering the error, advised the state highway department it would still consider Nebraska eligible for the bonus money if the Legislature this year corrected the error.

The corrective bill, LB3, was advanced off general file—the first step in the legislative process after a measure has had a committee hearing.

Also advanced from general file was LB32 which removes the limitation on the amount to be spent by the state for matching purposes for aid to the mentally disabled.

In 1959 a new category was set up in the Department of Welfare budget. It permitted aid to the mentally disabled but the Legislature placed a $200,000 ceiling on the state's contribution to this category for a biennium.

The state welfare department said the $200,000 was used in the first 17 months of this biennium and that another $82,000 from state funds will be necessary during the next 7 months.

No Place Busier Than Suburbia

MEADOW LANE
Good morning, World, and good morning Suburbia; and good night, it's Saturday already and time to tell you about another busy week in Meadow Lane!

We'll begin by mentioning another farewell courtesy for Capt. and Mrs. Walter Schrupp to be hosted by friends from the Lincoln Air Force Base.

Their hosts will be Maj. and Mrs. Milton Melland, who will honor Capt. and Mrs. Schrupp at a dinner party this evening at their home.

Other guests for dinner, to be followed by bridge, will be Maj. and Mrs. Joseph Allen, and Maj. and Mrs. Jerry Berkowitz.

The Harold Scheetz household has been a busy place this week, as Mr. and Mrs. Scheetz are entertaining an out-of-town visitor and two daughters who have just had their tonsils out.

The Meadow Lane visitor is Mrs. Scheetz's mother, Mrs. Glen Clark of Fairbury, who arrived in Lincoln on Wednesday and will return home today.

The "tonsil cases" are nine-year-old Deborah and 10-year-old Peggy. The girls had their tonsils removed Thursday at Bryan Memorial Hospital, and returned home yesterday to recuperate and to receive plenty of attention from their parents and grandmother.

And now we'll do a quick flashback to—first, last weekend—and then away back to last Tuesday, and tell you about Omaha and Lincoln visitors at the Lee Knopp household plus a Grand Island trip for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stephens.

Mr. and Mrs. Knopp entertained Omaha guests, Capt. and Mrs. Earlan Seawards and Sgt. and Mrs. Robert Morgan, and Meadow Lane neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harrington, at a dinner party at their home last Saturday evening.

The visitors from Omaha spent Saturday in Lincoln visiting their Meadow Lane friends, and returned home that evening.

That one-day stay in Grand Island last Tuesday for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stephens was a short, but fun, visit with friends in the Stephens' former hometown.

Mrs. Stephens was honored that morning at a coffee at the Yancy Hotel, hosted by Mrs. Harlan Garbers, when the guests included Mrs. Stephens' former friends and neighbors.

The Lincoln residents spent the remainder of the day with Grand Island friends, Mr. and Mrs. Don Taggee and Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Porter.

And now, back to the present, and the future. We can tell you that Mrs. Paul Hennings will be honored at a baby shower on Monday evening when the hostesses will be Mrs. Andy Swiger and Mrs. Willard Dix.

Gathering at the Swiger home, the guests will be Mrs. Harmon Brotnov, Mrs. Robert Erickson, Mrs. Allen Castleberry, Mrs. Robert Hippler, Mrs. Joseph Jones, Mrs. Woodrow Van Drew, Mrs. Frank Fish, Mrs. Dan Clyne, Mrs. Kirk Riemer, and Mrs. Charles Bryant.

PARK MANOR
Since we didn't tell you about everything going on in Park Manor in Thursday's Suburbia, we'll return to the scene and complete the report of neighborhood activities.

It was bridge time on Wednesday evening for several Park Manor residents as Mrs. L. F. Jones hosted her bridge group's regular monthly gathering for cards and dessert.

Guests were Mrs. Oscar Sandin, Mrs. Gail Calder, Mrs. Robert Swett, Mrs. William Cofield, Mrs. James Keill, Mrs. Gerald McCracken, and Mrs. Cyril Bish.

The group began on Mohawk Drive and has since moved, along with several of its members, to Park Manor.

From the William C. Redman household comes the very exciting news that Mr. and Mrs. Redman have a very new young lady in their family. She's a little late for Christmas and a little early for Valentine's Day, but Mr. and Mrs. Redman feel that their new three-week-old daughter, Allison Sue, is better than both put together.

Allison Sue came to the Redman household this week, much to the joy of her parents and new brother, three-year-old Scott.

Grandparents of the newest family member are Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Redmond of Perrysburg, Ohio, and Mrs. Katherine Schmall of Lincoln.

On Thursday, we mentioned last week's farewell courtesy for Mrs. Jack Irvine, and new, we have another one to mention.

Mrs. Irvine was honored yesterday at a bridge luncheon at the home of Mrs. John Conway. Neighbors and Lincoln friends of Mrs. Irvine were included in the three tables of bridge players on hand for the event.

Coed Names Attendants

The wedding of Miss Vera Egger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Egger of Bennet, and Larry Lee Fritz, will be an event of Tuesday, Jan. 29. The service will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock in the evening, at the Wesley Foundation Chapel on the University of Nebraska campus.

The bride-elect, who is a senior at the university, has named Miss Roberta Petersen of Neligh as her maid of honor and only attendant.

Ronald Fritz of Omaha will serve his brother as best man, and seating the guests will be Geary Dodendorf and Kent Krause.

A graduate student at the of Nebraska, Mr. Fritz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fritz of Adams.

Town Talk

Metropolitan Auditions To Be Held In Lincoln Next Monday Afternoon

For the first time in its history Lincoln will be host to Metropolitan Opera Co., auditions—but it won't be the last time.

Until this year Nebraska, Iowa, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Minnesota talent has gone to Minneapolis for the coveted auditions. But the Upper Mid-West Region, of which these seven states are a part, has been divided into seven districts. Nebraska is District 1.

There may be those who do not know that Mrs. Phil Sides is a member of the Metropolitan's National Council and that she is Nebraska's first and only representative on the council.

The business of the council involves regional auditions, and these audition sessions are held from coast to coast and border to border in search of new talent for the nation's foremost opera company.

Next Monday afternoon Nebraska vocalists who are considered to have better than average talent, will appear at the auditions which begin at 2 o'clock on the University of Nebraska campus. In the beginning Mrs. Sides and the committee which she appointed to assist in arranging the auditions, were fearful that audition contestants might be conspicuous by their absence. Mrs. Sides, however, and her committee which is composed of Leon Lishner, Oscar Bennett, Mrs. James Blackman, Mrs. Hiram Hilton, all of Lincoln, and Mrs. Irving Bemolken of Omaha, are more than pleased with the results.

On Monday afternoon Joseph Levine of Omaha and Leo Kopp of Chicago, will judge vocalists from Lincoln, Omaha and Norfolk, Mr. Levine, as you probably know, conducts the Omaha Symphony Orchestra, and Mr. Kopp needs no introduction to Lincoln. He is conductor of the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra, and also serves as a Metropolitan auditions judge in the Chicago area.

If there should be a winner on Monday afternoon he—or she—will be sent to the regional auditions in Minneapolis. If again a winner the contestant will appear at the final auditions conducted by the Metropolitan in New York.

Since we seem to be on things musical, we'll mention that Mr. Kopp will be the speaker at the coffee meeting of the Lincoln Symphony Guild when the group meets at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, 2610 So. 24th St.

Mrs. Donald Purvis is chairman of the hostess committee.

Also had a coffee Thursday morning, in the Terrace Room of the O Club. A "pink elephant" motif was carried out. Guests invited for the affair were Mrs. Lewis Lyle, Mrs. Patrick Tobin and Mrs. J. L. Howell. Winning the prizes were Mrs. William Nichols, Mrs. Corwin Hobensack and Mrs. Virgil Arrell. Hostess were Mrs. Richard Scharf, Mrs. Robert Tuttle, Mrs. Kenneth Schmid and Mrs. Archibald Samuels.

Mrs. Robert K. McIntyre was a hostess on Friday afternoon when she entertained her bridge group at her Michael Street residence. Ladies enjoying the delicious dessert were Mrs. Harold C. Morrison, Mrs. Henry Liljedahl, Mrs. Frederick Langille, Mrs. Bob Beaudro, Mrs. Henry Arnold, Mrs. Robert Spiller, Mrs. Robert Stuart, Mrs. Morris Hatfield, Mrs. Kenneth Schmid, Mrs. Louis Rase and Mrs. George Boldi.

The 372nd Bomb Squadron officers wives held an election coffee Tuesday morning at the O Club. A newcomer and a new bride, Mrs. Cornelius Cosentino was welcomed to the group. Mrs. Richard F. Arens was presented a silver disc as a farewell memento, and Mrs. William S. Lyons, outgoing chairman, was given a lovely charm bracelet in appreciation of her work for the past six months. Newly elected officers are Mrs. Jerald Eustace, chairman; Mrs. Robert C. Birkett, co-chairman; Mrs. John Shiffert, treasurer and Mrs. Odie G. Wehrly, party chairman. Prizes were won by Mrs. John B. Shiffert, Mrs. Roger J. Flank, Mrs. Jerald Eustace and Mrs. James R. McElvain. Hostesses for the morning were Mrs. Werner

E. Weindorf, Mrs. Charles R. Watt, Mrs. Larry Talovich, Mrs. Henry Grogan and Mrs. Frederick S. Tanner.

Lt. and Mrs. Odie G. Wehrly recently returned from a two week leave that was spent in Angleton, Tex. While there they visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Wehrly and Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Greenawalt. Something they both thoroughly enjoyed was a deer hunting excursion... they BOTH bagged a deer! Their friends might ask... who bagged the FIRST one!

The 345th Bomb Squadron officers wives held their monthly coffee Thursday afternoon at the Officers Club. Newcomers were Mrs. Raymond Narushko, Mrs. Samuel Trabun and Mrs. Robert Green. The prizes were won by Mrs. Donald Davis, Mrs. Robert Green and Mrs. Woody VanDrew. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. W. L. Thompson, Mrs. Solomon Harp, Mrs. Stephen Musselman and Mrs. Robert Connor.

Extension Club Meets

The monthly meeting of the Plainview Extension Club was held at the home of Mrs. Duane Mitchell, Tuesday, following a dessert luncheon.

A guest of the club was Mrs. John Hock, and the lesson, "Choosing and Using Lamps," was given by Mrs. Thelander and Mrs. Charles Boyer.

Mrs. Robert Hunt will be hostess to the group in February.

DEAR ABBY: I think my mother has too much time on her hands. I have been married for eight years and, thank goodness, we live 400 miles from my mother. You see, she never cared for my husband. About twice a week I get these long letters from her. She goes on and on about how I could have done better. She tries to plant seeds of doubt in my mind about my husband's faithfulness. (She says, "I heard from someone who knows, but I promised I wouldn't tell who said it") and Abby, I get so upset every time I get a letter from her I cry all day. How can I put a stop to these terrible, disturbing letters?

Dear Abby

Tell Your Mom You Won't Read Letters

Abigail Van Buren

TEARS IN MY EYES
DEAR TEARS: Write your mother and tell her that you are happily married and do not care to read about the gossip she has heard; and that if she writes one more trouble-provoking letter, you will return all her subsequent letters UNOPENED. And then do it.

DEAR ABBY: It says in the Bible that they took a rib out of Adam to make a woman. I think that rib must have been cracked judging from some of the women I've known.

MAN
DEAR MAN: Not all women are "cracked." Someone has been ribbing you.

DEAR ABBY: We have a health-food nut in our family. He lives on fresh vegetables, fruits, nuts and wheat germ. He won't eat MEAT of any kind. In fact, there are so many things he won't eat I couldn't begin to name them.

My problem is that I am having him to our home for dinner. There will be about 15 others, and they all eat everything. Should I call attention to his peculiar eating habits by serving him his special diet? Or should I serve him the same dinner as the rest? He's normal in every other respect and don't want to offend him.

WORRIED HOSTESS
DEAR WORRIED: Most health-food "nuts" are far from nutty, and their diet requirements are less trouble than the others. Just pass the vegetables, fruits and nuts to him.

DEAR ABBY: After being married 12 years and having 3 children, I met a man who changed my life. It started out quite innocently, but in less than a year there was no turning back. He is also married, with children, is a respected citizen and a deacon in his church. Even if I divorced my husband, he wouldn't follow suit. He has always leveled with me... another reason why I can't help loving him. I went into this with my eyes wide open, and it still didn't work. Someone always gets hurt. Now I have to fight this thing alone, and face my family every day. Please, Abby, tell all married women that if a married man so much as smiles in her direction to run for her life... because that's what's at stake.

The Walker Drive residence of Capt. and Mrs. John Ingraham is all set for a no host party this evening. This is the ladies' bridge group of the 98th Air Refueling Squadron that met every Saturday night for almost four months while their husbands were on an overseas reflex assignment. Enjoying the "get together," this time with their husbands, will be Maj. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, Maj. and Mrs. William E. Carlson, Maj. and Mrs. Dick Flemming, Maj. and Mrs. Frederick Richards, Capt. and Mrs. Daniel Dolan, Capt. and Mrs. Earl Farnsworth, Capt. and Mrs. Bryan Ferrell, Capt. and Mrs. John Hurley, Capt. and Mrs. Donald Luenenberg, Capt. and Mrs. Donald Shupert, Capt. and Mrs. Dean Wolleston and Capt. and Mrs. Edwin Vokes.

Maj. and Mrs. Donald J. Meade were a host and hostess last evening when they entertained at a canape and buffet dinner party at their Walker Drive residence. The guests of honor for the evening were Maj. and Mrs. Jack Berry who will be departing LAFB on Jan. 25 for an overseas assignment at Wethersfield, England. The Berrys are very fortunate as they will have "surface travel" on the SS America. This is a luxury liner, and there's not many service couples who have this opportunity! I'm sure they will thoroughly enjoy it! Invited guests to bid them Bon Voyage were Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert Culwell, Maj. and Mrs. James Sears, Maj. and Mrs. Orin Laplante, Maj. and Mrs. Robert Julien, Maj. and Mrs. James Carr, Maj. and Mrs. Ralph Bothe, Capt. and Mrs. John Nelson, Capt. and Mrs. Joseph McEnerny, Capt. and Mrs. Samuel Trabun and Capt. and Mrs. James Barnes.

Mrs. Berry was honored at a tea on Wednesday in the Green Room of the Officers Club when the hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Robert Coffey and Mrs. Samuel Trabun. Thirty of Mrs. Berry's friends were on hand to bid her farewell.

Thomas Powell, Mrs. Robert Coffey and Mrs. Ronald McCarty.

Another coffee Thursday morning at the Officers Club was the 818th Aero Space Division and Combat Support Group Wives. A Chinese auction was held, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all the wives. Mrs. Alma Wilkinson was the lucky prize winner. Hostess for the morning were the ladies of the 3507th USAF Recruiting Group that included Mrs. Herbert O. Hamilton, Mrs. Joseph Sivahop, Mrs. James O'Leary and Mrs. Russell Llewellyn.

To Entertain Alumnae Club

Mrs. A. T. Ward will be hostess at her home, 3039 Stratford, on Saturday morning, to the alumnae of Gamma Phi Beta sorority. The members will meet for a 10:15 o'clock coffee and to hear a talk by Dr. Robert Manley of the University of Nebraska faculty.

round of diamonds. However, this is not too good a prospect to rely on, since the 3-3 break occurs in only 36% of hands, and you therefore look around for some other means of supplementing your chances.

One outstanding possibility is that the player with the diamond length (assuming the suit is not divided 3-3) also has the king of clubs among his possessions. If that is the case, you can make the hand by simply cashing your tricks in the right order.

There being no better line of play available, you proceed on the basis that the diamonds are either divided 3-3 or the defender with the majority of them also has the king of clubs.

You ruff the spade continuation with the jack of hearts, cash three high hearts and the ace of clubs, and then enter dummy with a trump. After you cash the king of spades and discard a club, this becomes the position:

North
A 8 7
West
J 10 6 4
K
East
Immaterial
South
K Q 5 2

Now you lead the ten of hearts and discard a club, hoping that the squeeze position you carefully set up will be effective. In the actual hand, it is. West cannot discard in any way that will prevent you from winning the rest of the tricks.

Good Care Of Your Complexion And Hair A Must In The Beauty Improvement Plan

Josephine Lowman

In any self-improvement routine which aims at an even prettier you, care of the complexion and hair cannot be overlooked. It is wonderful what daily care of the skin can do for a woman. Our epidermis responds so happily when given a chance! Care of the skin is even more important if you are losing weight, and if you have a dry complexion.

Let us consider the woman who has dry skin, first. Daily lubrication is an essential. You just must soak your face and neck for at least 30 minutes each day in a good oily cream! Even if you have normal skin, remember that the natural oils diminish as the years pile up.

The woman who has a dry complexion should use a cleansing cream instead of soap and water. The woman who is reducing and who has a normal epidermis should take special care also. Lubrication of the face

Lost Anything?
It's about time to take measurements again to see if you've lost inches anywhere. Meanwhile, I hope you BIP Corps girls have been weighing daily and graphing your weight. Probably the weight line is going down. If not, you may have cut your calories still more.

and neck are essential. It is also a fine idea to use a body lotion. You must keep your outer coating as pliable as possible so that it can adapt to the loss of weight. It has to shrink!
If you have an oily complexion, soap and water are for you! If it is extremely oily, soap and water several times a day will be beneficial. You can also use astringents to advantage. If she expects to look her best at the end of these eight weeks.

The hair responds almost as readily as the complexion does to regular daily care. It does not matter whether your scalp and hair are oily or dry, daily scalp massage and daily brushing is important.

If you have dry hair, do not shampoo it so often. Perhaps every 10 to 12 days

I want to emphasize the fact that any woman who is following my 8-Week (Beauty Improvement Plan BIP) must give her complexion the care it needs every day will be sufficient. If your hair is very oily, shampoo it often, at least once a week.

Of course, fine nutrition, exercise and happy thoughts affect both your complexion and your tresses in a wonderful way. Don't neglect daily care of your skin and hair during this Beauty Improvement period.

CORRIDOR
BY BARBARA TREBLEHORN

Now is the time of projects, reports and, most of all, exams. Yes, it's that time when material once learned must be reviewed and that which was put off until the last must be done. As if these were enough to keep most Knights busy, the Southeast calendar is also crammed with many other activities.

Not the least of these are the rehearsals for Nite of Knights Acts. Rehearsals are under way to ready the acts for the auditions. February 6, 7, and 8.

Another activity coming up on the agenda is the Sadie Hawkins Dance sponsored by International Club. Girls throughout the school are mustering the nerve to ask that one "special" boy they've always sort of had their eye on.

Key Club will be the host at dances after games in the Southeast gym this year. The first of these was after the Grand Island game on Friday.

Cheerleaders, the subject of a poll taken Thursday, have kept their off hours busy by peeling carrots to sell at the games. These carrots are a source of revenue which help the cheerleaders pay for the Chili Feed, which is held each November, and transportation to out of town games.

The poll (about the cheerleaders) was taken to help resolve the questions of the eligibility of cheerleaders for royalty. The results of this poll will help the Student Council establish their new rule concerning the number of times any girl can be nominated for royalty.

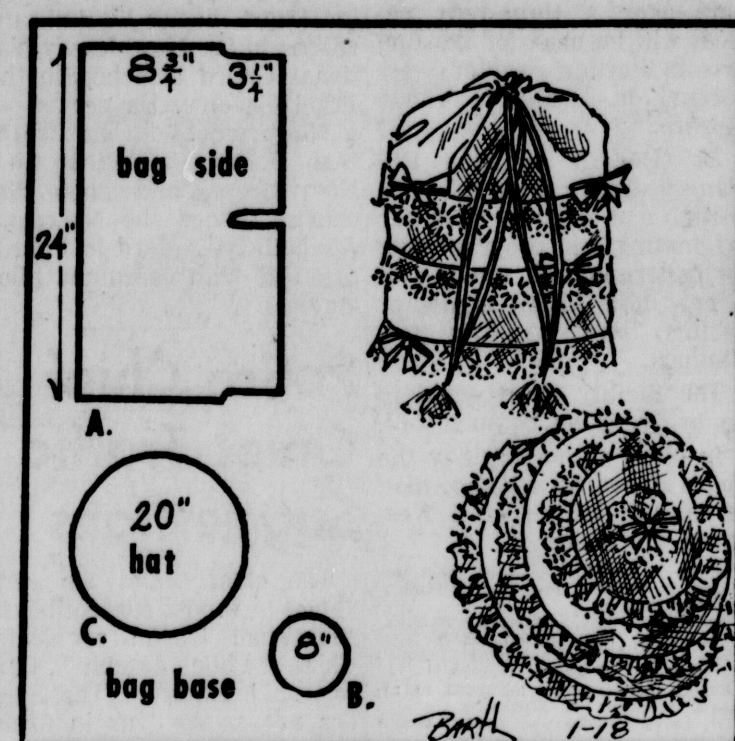

Another vote this week decided an important issue in the pep club. It was decided that uniforms will be worn the days of all in town athletic events. Formerly uniforms were worn just on the days of basketball games during the winter.

Use East Entrance!
So sorry folks for the inconvenience caused by the closing of our west-side entrance. The underground cable should be completed soon and we hope you'll hear with us and use the East entrance to Tony & Luigi's where good food is always served.

Sleep Pretty In Lace And Organdy Cap--Store Those Unsightly Rollers In Bag

Patricia Scott

I think the new ruffled sleeping caps and roller bags are great. Not too long ago, I remember storing my rollers, of all sizes, in plastic bags that lasted about a month. And, the sight of myself in the morning with rollers and chic hair net was enough to unsettle me for the day. So, if you have never bought a set because they're too expensive, make them instead. I know you'll love them.

Sleeping Cap: You'll need 1/2 yard of sheer nylon organdy; 4 yards of matching bias seam binding; 7 yards of ruffled lace 1 1/4 inches wide; 1/2 yard of cord elastic.

so you can insert the elastic.
2. Top-stitch the lace on the cap, with ruffled edge overlapping the binding and the straight edge towards the center. Sew 4 more circles of lace 2 inches apart, easing in the fullness in the last row. Shirr 6 inches of lace tightly to make the "flower" at the center of the crown and tack to the cap.

3. Cut eleven 6-inch strips of seam binding and tie in bows. Sew one in the center of the flower, and hand-tack the others at random on the bands of lace.

4. Insert the cord elastic through the binding to fit the head comfortably and sew the ends together.

Roller Bag: You'll need 2-3 yard of sheer nylon organdy; 2-3 yard of lightweight cotton fabric for lining; 1/4 yard of non-woven interfacing, heavy weight for base; 4 3/4 yards of bias seam binding; 2 3/4 yards of ruffled lace 1 1/4 inches wide.

1. Cut one bag side piece of nylon and one of the lightweight cotton fabric (Fig. A). The edge with "U" cut out will be the top edge of the bag, and the 24-inch side will be the lower edge. Cut one circle of nylon 8 inches in diameter (Fig. B), one of lightweight cotton and one of interfacing. From now on, treat the nylon and cotton pieces as one.

2. Bind the "U" cut-out sections at top of bag. Bind the top edges and fold back 1 1/2 inches to the wrong side and stitch.

3. Fold fabric 5 1/2 inches from lower edge and stitch narrow tuck on right side. Sew row of lace over tuck with straight edge up. Sew 2 more rows of lace below 2 inches apart. With right sides together, sew side seam closed, taking 1/4 inch seam allowance.

4. Seam circular base (including interfacing) to lower edge of bag. Cut two 26 inch strips of binding, fold them in half lengthwise and stitch closed. Thread each through casing in opposite directions and tack ends closed.

5. Make 2 lace "flowers," as on center of hat. Sew one over each end of tie. Make ten 6-inch pieces of binding into bows. Sew 1 bow in center of each flower on tie ends. Tack other bows at random on bands of lace.

If you are making both cap and bag, then 1 yard of nylon organdy will be sufficient for both.

CORRECT—ATTEST:

Wesleyan Board Accepts $135,000 In Gifts, Grants

The Wesleyan University Board of Trustees Friday accepted $135,000 in gifts and grants to the school.

The money included:

- $71,000 from the estate of the late Alfred S. Krause.
- $25,000 from the J. M. McDonald Foundation, Inc. of Hastings.
- $39,910 from the Louis W. and Maud Hill Family Foundation.

Krause, a native of Adams,

Nebr., specified that his estate should be placed in the general endowment fund. Krause was a 1913 graduate of Wesleyan. He was an educator prior to his death last year at Oakland, Calif.

The McDonald grant, payable over a three-year period, will be used for the fine arts-auditorium center, according to President Vance Rogers.

Dr. Rogers said the Hill Family grant covers a 5-year period and will be used for originating and programming an experiment in the use of a new 1620 I.B.M. computer facility on the Wesleyan Campus.

The facility is expected to be in operation by next fall.

In other actions Friday the board approved advancement in rank or tenure for 6 Wesleyan professors.

Chaplain Frederick Blumer was advanced to assistant professor of philosophy and religion.

Dr. William Cascini, associate professor of sociology, was granted tenure.

Ted Kneebone was advanced to assistant professor of library science.

Robert Stoddard was advanced to assistant professor of geography.

Dr. Larry Vaughn was granted tenure and made professor of education.

Football Coach Ray Westover was elevated to an assistant professor of physical education from instructor.

In all the world no monument is more famous than Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty. Standing on an isle in New York harbor, it is the symbol of a nation that enjoys the ultimate in political and religious freedom. It is our Americanism landmark.

Since 1886, the towering statue has been the first welcoming beacon for countless thousands coming to these shores to find a better life... The life of Liberty, of Freedom, the American way. The inscription on its base carries a potent message of promise as significant as the monument itself:

"Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free.
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore.
Send these, the homeless, the tempest-tost, to me:
I lift my lamp beside the golden door."
Then, if we have in the past, may we never again take Liberty for granted... it wears a price tag.

Paul Paces Plainsmen To 13th Win

Fremont — Nebraska Wesleyan's Chet Paul went on a scoring rampage here Friday night, pumping in 40 points to lead the Plainsmen to a 93-75 victory over Midland.

Paul connected on 13 field goals and 14 of 19 free throw attempts for his lofty point total.

The win was the 9th in a row for the Plainsmen and their 13th victory against only one loss this season. The Wesleyan cagers had little trouble in picking up the win and trailed only once.

Midland enjoyed a 3-2 lead early in the game, but then fell behind for good. Paul scored 26 of his 40 points in the opening 20 minutes as the Plainsmen rolled to a 48-39 halftime advantage.

NWU's first half lead came despite a hot shooting Warriors quintet. Midland hit 14 of 26 field goal attempts the first 20 minutes, but the fast-breaking Plainsmen fired more shots toward the basket to take the lead.

Wesleyan connected on 18 of 40 field goal attempts the first half.

Paul cooled off considerably from the field the second half. After making good on 10 of 15 field goal attempts the first half, he found the range on only 3 of 10 in the final period.

Paul also pulled down 20 rebounds to lead both teams in this department before leaving the game with about two minutes left.

The Nebraska Wesleyan star got help in the scoring department from Dick Nelson with 19 and Mel Hawbecker's 11. Coach Irv Peterson used 12 players with 8 of them entering the scoring column.

Midland pulled within 8 points at 72-64 with 8 minutes left, but Wesleyan quickly spurred and the Warriors never got that close again.

Dick Mendenhall paced the Midland scoring with 20 points while Dennis Brislen and Jim Perry added 13 each. Jim Brown contributed 12.

A total of 77 free throws were shot in the foul-infested contest with Wesleyan converting 25 of 35 and Midland making good on 23 of 42.

NWU enjoyed a comfortable margin of 34 to 25 from the field.

Midland's next contest is next Friday night at Sioux Falls, S.D. Wesleyan travels to Sioux City, Iowa, to meet Morningside next Saturday.

Midland's record now stands at 4-7 for the year.

Settlement May Be Near In AAU-NCAA Dispute

Final Decision In War Might Be Made Today

... PROGRESS REPORTED IN ARBITRATION

New York (AP) — A settlement is near in the AAU-NCAA sports controversy but a final decision can not be made before Saturday the official spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur said Friday night.

"We had hoped to have the matter resolved without any further meetings," Earl (Red) Blaik, press liaison man for the general, said after two lengthy arbitration sessions.

"But there are some minor points that the fellows want to talk over first."

"We will reconvene Saturday morning and we are all hopeful of announcing a settlement by lunch time."

Earlier in the day Friday, the former Army football coach told a press conference that a settlement of the long and bitter squabble was expected to be reached Friday night.

He said there was a slight conflict in the wording of the final draft and that representatives of both sides had asked for a chance to talk this over with each other before finally agreeing to the document.

The Amateur Athletic Union has been the governing body of amateur sports in the United States for more than half a century, but recently the colleges have demanded a greater voice in the conduct of these affairs.

They have set up rival federations in track and field, gymnastics and basketball.

MacArthur, 82-year-old retired 5 star general who has been a hero in several wars, was designated by President Kennedy to arbitrate the dispute, after all other efforts had failed.

MacArthur emerged Friday as the potential strong man of American amateur sports. He said he not only would arbitrate the present dispute but would be ready to settle other problems that might arise before the 1964 Olympics.

This means that MacArthur not only will make a binding decision in the arbitration meetings now in progress at his Waldorf-Astoria Towers suite but will be ready to put out any brush fires that might arise later on.

"We want to get the job done," Blaik said. "It is vital to our country. We want to get our athletes back in action and have the best possible team ready for the 1964 Olympics. The hope is to reach a settlement at these meetings, but we don't expect to solve all the problems."

Four representatives from each of the two factions were present at the session along with Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's chief aide, and Blaik.

Representing the Amateur Athletic Union, which has been the sanctioning agency in such international events as the Pan American Games and Olympics for half a century, were Louis J. Fisher of High Point, N.C., president; Col. Don Hull, executive director; Pincus Sober, legislative chairman, and Albert Whittle, Baltimore attorney.

Carrying the banner of the college group, which insists it deserves a greater voice in the conduct of these affairs, were Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association; William Russell of Inglewood, Calif., president of the newly-formed U.S. Track and Field Federation; Dr. Mason Cross, president of Rutgers University, and Kenneth Midgley, Kansas City attorney.

MacArthur notified the AAU that Russell was official spokesman for the college group. This fixed the line of battle between the AAU and the new federation, not the NCAA. The AAU has charged the NCAA with trying a "power grab."

Each side has blacklisted meets sanctioned by the other. The AAU has suspended athletes who competed in events under federation jurisdiction. The NCAA has asked athletes of its 600 member colleges to spurn AAU meets, such as those on the popular indoor circuit.

There were reports that a moratorium might be declared for the period of the arbitration talks, but there was no immediate move in this direction.

The Eastern College Athletic Conference sent wires asking colleges to skip the Metropolitan AAU championships, scheduled Friday night. All NCAA college athletes were withdrawn from Saturday night's Los Angeles Invitational Indoor meet.

Southeast Loses Overtime Tilt, 58-57

By CONDE SARGENT

Prep Sports Writer

A trio of Grand Island players snatched victory away from Lincoln Southeast — in its best team effort — Friday night by a 58-57 count in an overtime.

Six-five Art Glur, one-third of GI's scoring punch, won the game with two free throws with 24 seconds remaining in the overtime.

But smooth Southeast play came to a halt in the final period and Grand Island, now 4-3 for the season, came on strong.

Junior forward John Sanders and guard Tom Millsap joined with Glur to score all but one of GI's points.

Sanders, a rebounding demon, had 21 points and played his best game of the year. Glur added 19 and Millsap, although wild from the field, had 17 (11 of 14 free throws.)

The Southeast attack was paced by Steve Bock, who like Sanders was at a career peak.

Junior Bock had 18 markers and battled effectively around the boards.

Gary Pettett, a sub for injured regular Dennis Johnson, potted 13 points to back up Bock. Mike Jennings sniped in 12.

Unfortunately, for SE coach Bob Lohrborg, Pettett and Jennings put their shots in early, leaving the final half pressure mainly on Bock.

Bock got 12 points after the halftime break.

Doug Dworak got a fast break bucket to start the overtime to seemingly send SE into command. Bock's drive-in after Jennings pusher made this more evident at 57-54 with 1:26 left.

Millsap had a 3-point play before the Bock and Jennings thrust.

But two Millsap free throws and a missed SE charity shot gave GI life and Glur was fouled as he backed towards the bucket with 24 seconds left.

He clipped the cords twice and Southeast came back, after a time out, but didn't get position for a good shot.

Free throws definitely played a big difference — Grand Island hit 22 of 31 and SE 7 of 18. The Knights, now 3-4, had 7 more field goals.

Southeast assumes the favorite role tonight against Pius X at Pershing Auditorium.

FOILED SHOT . . . Dave Hollibaugh is fouled while shooting by Northeast's Jerry Motz (21).

Links Edge Rockets

Lincoln High took command of the intracity basketball race Friday night, but it wasn't easy.

The Links had to battle for their lives to gain a 36-33 win over Northeast and clinch at least a tie for the Capital City cage championship.

The game was certainly no offensive battle and believe it or not, the victory margin was picked up thanks to a 7-4 scoring bulge in the 3rd period.

Lincoln High is now 3-0 in intracity play and 4-1 on the year. Another tough assignment faces coach Allen Johnson's quintet tonight when they travel to Omaha for an encounter with the state's No. 1 prep team, Creighton Prep.

The Links final game of the year in intracity competition will be Feb. 8 against Southeast. In an earlier meeting, the Knights fell 65-49.

But earlier meetings and season records are tossed to the wind when two Lincoln teams tangle in any sport.

The Northeast game was a typical example. In December it was Lincoln High over Northeast, 57-38.

But it was a different story Friday. Both teams were as cold as the sub-zero outside temperature.

And strange as it may seem, missed free throws spelled doom for the Rockets despite the fact they missed only 5 of 22 in the entire game.

At halftime, with the score tied 21-21, Northeast had hit 11 of 12 charity tosses. The losers hit 2-2 in the 3rd stanza, but then hard luck Larry Hubka, who hadn't missed a free throw all night, missed 4 himself in the fatal 4th period.

Lincoln High didn't go ahead to stay until only 2:44 remained on the clock. At that time Northeast was leading 33-32 when Dave Hollibaugh connected from the field to put LHS in front 34-33.

Lincoln High managed only two more free throws the rest of the time and during the same span, Hubka missed with 3 attempts.

Northeast made its intentions known early by jumping to a 4-0 lead at the outset. The Links failed to score from the floor until over 4 minutes had elapsed.

The only scoring spurge of the night by either team came in the second period.

Lincoln High pocketed 15 points while NE got 14 to make for a 21-all deadlock at intermission.

Northeast was down 21-15 with only 2:43 remaining in the half, but 6 consecutive free throws — two each by Hubka, Jerry Motz and Terry Monk — tied the count at intermission.

Seven points aren't many for a quarter of play, but that's all Lincoln High got in the 3rd period and in the end they proved to be the winning margin. Northeast was held to a mere 4 point period as Lincoln High installed a semi-pro and man-to-man defense that rattled the Northeast cagers.

NCAA Athletes Out Of Los Angeles Meet

Los Angeles (AP) — All athletes enrolled at member schools of the National Collegiate Athletic Association have been withdrawn from the Los Angeles Invitational indoor track and field meet Saturday night, it was disclosed Friday.

Victor Kelley, an executive of the United States Track and Field Federation, made the disclosure, confirming reports from at least 3 of the schools.

They were Pepperdine, and Long Beach and Los Angeles State colleges.

Also out of the meet apparently are two athletes from the University of California at Berkeley and one runner from Oregon State University.

Spokesmen for the schools in this area said their athletes are standing by in the hope that some armistice might be called in New York where representatives of the embattled NCAA and the AAU are in session with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"We are hoping something will happen in New York which will permit our kids to compete," one spokesman said.

Saturday night's meet in the Sports Arena has been sanctioned by the AAU. The meet did not ask the track federation for a sanction.

NFL Betting Probe Nearing Completion

... ROZELLE SAYS NOTHING OF CRIMINAL NATURE FOUND

New York (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League said Friday he was "in a position now of attempting to complete our findings" in the professional football betting probe and hoped to announce them as soon as possible.

Rozelle also said his extended investigation, up to this point, has developed nothing of a criminal nature, such as point shaving or actual throwing of games.

The commissioner made these statements after agreeing to a joint request by the wire services for a briefing on the progress of the investigation. Under the ground rules laid down, there was no mention of specific incidents, names, places and identity of clubs involved.

"This is an investigation," Rozelle began, "not a series of announcements of league business in the public interest."

"We want to make it as successful and as effective an investigation as possible. Premature disclosures would nullify its effectiveness."

"We do not yet have the full facts. We're in a position now of attempting to complete our findings."

"We have been accused of covering up, of trying to hide the facts. Some people have been saying we are waiting for this whole thing to drift out of the papers and then hope everybody will forget about it. That's not true. We're not trying to hide anything."

"We simply feel that by confirming reports or by premature disclosure of facts, or by giving out information in dribs and drabs without having all the facts, we would not only be doing an injustice to the people involved but we would be impairing the investigation and jeopardizing the cooperation of the individuals involved."

"If the facts justify disciplinary action at the conclusion of our investigation, such action will be taken and an announcement will be made. But we are not going to jump at conclusions and we'll make no announcement until we have assembled all the facts we can."

Rozelle repeatedly stressed that he was anxious to complete the investigation as quickly as possible.

"Our goal is to wrap it up with one announcement," he said. "But it is impossible to predict when that will come. We're working to bring about an announcement as quickly as possible."

"But we're not going to sacrifice a significant development by any hasty action."

Asked whether the investigation had uncovered any point shaving or throwing of games by a player or players, Rozelle replied:

"The strongest thing I can say is this. Our investigation up to this point has developed nothing of a criminal nature."

On the suggestion that it might be wise to confirm facts, Rozelle said:

"By confirming reports we can only jeopardize the success of the investigation and hurt people who may prove to be complete innocent."

"We can not only impair the investigation but lose the confidence and cooperation of the people already involved and those we might want to talk to in the future."

Bourguiba Attacks Algeria, Ben Bella

Tunis (AP) — Tunisia's fiery president, Habib Bourguiba, accused Algeria Friday of helping to foment a recent plot against his life. He summoned home his ambassador to Algiers and called Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella "a simple-minded peasant."

"Not all members of the Algerian government were involved," Bourguiba said. "Most of them criticize the policy of Ben Bella toward us."

Union Ballot Set At Boeing

Washington (AP) — The Federal Mediation Service announced Friday that union employees of the Boeing Co. will vote next Wednesday on the company's latest contract offer.

William E. Simkin, director of the service, said the International Association of Machinists has postponed a threatened strike against the company until after the balloting.

A walkout had been threatened for midnight Friday night in the 6-month-old dispute.

Boeing, a major missile-plane producer, employs about 42,000 persons with principal plants at Seattle, Wash., and Wichita, Kan.

P. L. (Roy) Siemiller of Chicago, machinists union vice president, said the company had refused a union of issues to binding arbitration.

He said the machinists offer to submit all unresolved issues to final arbitration "because we are extremely conscious of the public interest in this dispute involving vital defense work."

Officials in Algiers would not comment on the negotiations. But usually reliable sources said there was a conflict over the question of the Algerians' reported refusal to allow extradition of a Tunisian accused in the plot against Bourguiba.

Live Space Food

Moscow, (AP) — A Soviet space scientist said cosmonauts of the future may take along food in the form of live animals or fowls. Yevgeny Sheplev, a specialist in space medicine, said he believed chickens would be the first to ride with the cosmonauts but he also mentioned rabbits.

Wild Berries Fatal To Boy

Philadelphia (AP) — Roland W. Driver Jr., 6, died Friday, 4 days after he ate poisonous wild berries in a park near his home.

The boy and two companions had gone to suburban Montgomery Memorial Park to hunt for snakes. "I can't see, I can't see," Roland suddenly cried, staggering about.

He was taken to a hospital where he failed to regain consciousness despite increasing efforts by doctors and nurses.

Dr. Frederick Reider of the Philadelphia medical examiner's office said the berries came from a plant known as ground cherries or husk tomatoes.

Laboratory studies disclosed the boy died of poisoning by substances that appear to be of the belladonna alkaloids and related to atropine.

Reider said, however, that atropine as such has not been found. He added that the lab studies indicated the boy had eaten at least 5 of the berries, more than a lethal dose.

German Jailed

Haifa, Israel, (UPI) — Ernest Steppe, 23, a German sailor, was jailed for a month for calling a man a "damned Jew" in a brawl in a cafe.

Tshombe To Risk Life In Seeking Surrender

Elisabethville (UPI) — U.N. officials said Friday that President Moise Tshombe will fly to Kolwezi "at the peril of his life" Saturday to persuade his die-hard followers to surrender his stronghold town peacefully to U.N. troops.

The officials said they would put no one on Tshombe's little single-engine plane when he flies to the cobalt capital to put into effect Thursday's surrender agreement with the United Nations.

U.N. officials said they would track his plane by radar from Kipushi, 40 miles south of Elisabethville, on the hour-long flight to Kilwezi. Otherwise, they said, Tshombe will be on his own with the bodyguards the U.N. allowed him to name to guard against an assassination attempt from disgruntled mercenaries in his forces.

"(Tshombe is going at the peril of his life)," a senior diplomat at U.N. Headquarters in New York said. "He made the mercenaries believe he would fight to the last; Tshombe now will be permitted to have as a bodyguard a whole company of his faithful troops. The bodyguards have been making up to $1000 a month and they are angry to be out of their jobs."

JFK Wants Villa

London (UPI) — The London Daily Mirror said President Kennedy wants to buy or rent a holiday villa at Conca di Marina on the Italian coast near Ravenna where Mrs. Kennedy visited last summer. It said the "homestead he likes is a 10-room castle."

Gromyko Sets Trip

Oslo, (UPI) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will visit Norway at the end of next month at invitation of the Norwegian government, it was announced. His visit will return one paid to the Soviet Union by Foreign Minister Halvard M. Lange in November, 1961.

Kansas City Fire Claims 3 Children

Kansas City (AP) — Three children died Friday in a fire while their mother was gone to use a telephone.

In a smoke-filled second floor room, huddled in a chair, firemen found the bodies of Margaret Chism, 5, Marsha Chism, 3 and Larry Chism, 2. Firemen said cause of the fire was not known.

Mrs. Jessie Chism, mother of the 3, said she had gone to a neighbor's home to inform her employer she was ill. She said she returned when she heard the fire engines.

'Centennial Could Rekindle Pride'

Nebraska's 1967 centennial celebration will give its citizens their greatest opportunity to rekindle and display nationally their fire of pride if sufficient funds are available for the event, the Legislature's Budget Committee was told Friday.

Centennial Commission Chairman A. James Ebel, and Commission Secretary W. D. Aeschbacher, expressed these thoughts in their appearance before the committee to explain the 1963-65 budget request of centennial planners.

The agency is asking for $72,480 for the coming biennium, an increase of $47,480 over current appropriations. The increase is asked, Ebel said, to boost plans for the celebration into high gear.

Levy Bill Fate

Aeschbacher suggested the Budget Committee might want to defer action on the commission's biennial budget request until the disposition is known of the bill which will be introduced creating a special levy of .07 of a mill to finance the celebration.

Ebel emphasized again that the commission adopted a policy this past week which would prohibit the use of any of the mill levy money for construction of permanent buildings.

If the mill levy (which would raise about $1 million over the 4-year period) is approved, it would be used only for educational, cultural and promotional purposes, he said. Aeschbacher also presented the 1963-65 budget request for the Nebraska State Historical Society which is seeking $522,670, as against its 1961-63 appropriation of $330,533.

The additional funds sought would make it possible for the agency to expand some of its activities, hire the personnel necessary to carry out the programs, enable the society to meet the growing needs of its library program, and effect necessary salary increases.

Act Too Real

Havana (AP)—The audience in the Cabaret Nacional applauded when the male member of a dance team finished his act by plunging two daggers toward his stomach and coiling up on the floor. But 31-year-old Jose Padron had to be hospitalized with two deep abdomen cuts. He told police it was accidental.

MAN MATCHES COUNCILMAN'S CRIBBAGE FEAT

Last week on the same day that City Councilman Ed Becker held a perfect cribbage hand, another Lincolnite duplicated the feat.

Playing during his lunch hour at the Goodyear plant, Joe Kolar of 724 No. 58th, Goodyear manager of purchasing, was dealt 3 fives and the jack of spades, and drew the 5 of spades to complete the rare hand, worth 29 points.

It was Kolar's first perfect hand, though he reports a 28-point hand a couple of years ago.

Conscripts To Be Cut

Buenos Aires (AP)—The Argentine Army announced it will cut the number of conscripts by 10% Feb. 1 in a move to cut costs and allow modernizing of equipment.

Report Baby Is Allergic To Mother 'Hogwash': Doctors

Chicago, (AP)—Kevin Rae Gibbs may be allergic to a lot of things, University of Illinois doctors said Friday, but he certainly isn't allergic to his mother.

"Reports the 10-month-old Gibbs boy may have been allergic to his mother were absolutely nonsense and pure hogwash," a hospital spokesman said. "The boy was examined Friday and will be examined further next Friday to determine just what it is he is allergic to."

Kevin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gibbs of Moline, has eczema doctors said. He is allergic to one of an almost limitless number of allergy-causing things — dust, wool, cosmetics, furniture polish, soap, something in his diet—but not his mother, the spokesman said.

Doctors at the hospital lauded diagnosis and treatment given the Gibbs baby by Moline physicians and described as "old wives' tales" reports that the baby may have been allergic to Mrs. Gibbs.

"It is medically impossible for one human being to be allergic to another human being," one doctor said. "Kevin probably is allergic to something his mother wears or gives him. That may be the reason some people thought he was allergic to her. But it just isn't true."

Red Artificial Limbs

Moscow (AP)—The Soviet Union announced it is selling licenses for the manufacture of artificial hands controlled by tiny electrical impulses from the muscles of the human arm. Tass said with the hands amputees can handle tools, light cigarettes and comb their hair.
